

PRESIDENT DOUBTS POWER TO COMPEL CORPORATION FACTS

Coolidge Questions U. S.
Authority to Force
Finance Reports.

HOLDS ONLY STATES
HAVE SUCH CONTROL

Ripley Article, Exposing De-ceptions, Brings Opinion; Is Eager to Protect Investors.

Special to The Washington Post.
Paul Smiths, N. Y., Aug. 27.—President Coolidge is inclined to doubt the power of the Federal government to exact from corporations full information of their financial condition so as to acquaint stockholders with the true value of their investment. He views this as a purely State power.

The attention of the President was directed by newspaper correspondents today to the article in the September Atlantic Monthly by Prof. William Z. Ripley, of Harvard university, an authority on economics, exposing the alleged concealment, misrepresentation and deceptions perpetrated by many large corporations in their annual statements frequently for the enrichment of insiders in resultant movements of the stock on the market.

Prof. Ripley in this article handled a number of large corporations by name without gloves, quoting from their reports examples of the methods by which stockholders are kept in ignorance of the condition and business activity of the company. He pronounced the reform of this condition the crying need of the hour and declared it within the power of the Federal government to enforce full corporation publicity.

Sensation in Street.
The article produced a sensation in Wall street, causing a flurry on the stock exchange, where profound respect is accorded the opinions and recommendations of Prof. Ripley. It was only last year that he caused a similar sensation by his attack on the practice of corporations in issuing nonvoting stock. There followed a conference at the White House between President Coolidge and Prof. Ripley, at which various proposed means of reforming the evils incident to nonvoting stock issues were discussed.

Nothing came of it, however, except action by the New York Stock Exchange, whose governing board announced that it would inquire carefully into the affairs of any corporation seeking to list nonvoting stock. This action is said to have exerted a deterrent influence on the practice.

The President had not read the current article of Prof. Ripley, but indicated that he would do so and give the matter serious consideration. He would not want to venture a positive opinion without consideration of the economist's premises and conclusions.

Eager for Protection.
Mr. Coolidge pointed out that there are now about 20,000,000 security holders in the country. It is his desire to do everything that can be done to safeguard their interests.

The President, however, is mindful of the line drawn between the jurisdiction of the Federal government and of the States in regard to the regulation of corporations. The Federal jurisdiction is limited by the interstate commerce clause of the Constitution. While this clause has been very broadly interpreted and the national government has been clothed thereby with very broad powers, it still remains that the national government lacks authority unless there is an element of interstate transit involved.

Mr. Coolidge illustrated by the case of coal as determined by the courts. The mining of coal is not an act of interstate commerce, according to court decision, and the central government, therefore, can not regulate it. But when the coal is shipped from one State to another it comes under the commerce clause and under the jurisdiction of the national government.

The doubt in the President's mind is that the government can exact from the coal company shipping coal in interstate commerce, a statement of its finances any more than it can regulate the conditions under which the coal is mined.

The authority of the Federal Trade Commission to require information from corporations is incident-

Coolidge Battles Strong River Current for Trout

Paul Smiths, N. Y., Aug. 27 (By A. P.).—Taking advantage of ideal fishing weather, President Coolidge donned hip boots today and went in quest of brook trout in Osgood river. The river, flowing out of Osgood lake, on which White Pine camp is situated, is a turbulent stream, especially this summer when the water is unusually high because of heavy rains.

Using earth worms for bait, the chief executive frequently found himself in water nearly to the tops of his boots, and in places where the current was particularly strong, kept his balance only by skillful maneuvering.

The party returned to camp with a dozen trout.

FRANCE TO REJECT AID IN STEADYING FINANCES

Decided Stand Taken as Reply to Rumors That Help Is to Be Offered.

MINISTRY IS EMPHATIC

Paris, Aug. 27 (By A. P.). France will put her own financial house in order and will accept nothing resembling the Dawes plan.

Such was the decided stand taken by the French government today toward persistent reports both at home and abroad that foreign financiers were discussing among themselves plans to assist this country in straightening out her public finances and especially to stabilize the franc. The Associated Press today was authorized by the ministry of finance to say that the French government is unaware of any such plan, that it is competent to arrange its own finances without suggestions from abroad, and that anything approaching or resembling a Dawes plan for France would not be considered for a minute.

Should any of the eminent foreign financiers now visiting in this country desire to be received by Premier Poincare, their wishes would be gladly acceded to but thus far the French government has not requested their advice or guidance.

Frequent intimations of late that Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, was in France to attend various financial conferences, evidently has caused annoyance among French statesmen. Many think that these reports originated for no good purpose in Germany. All the American financiers of note who have visited in France this summer have consistently denied that they were in any way concerned with conferences regarding French finances.

U. S. Tourist Drugged On Train and Robbed

(Special Cable Dispatch.)
Paris, Aug. 27.—Added to the list of victims of thieves who are preying on the hordes of American tourists abroad, is Michael Newman, a German-Jewish rabbi from New York, who was chloroformed on the train from Paris to Cherbourg, where he embarked on the Levathan en route to Southampton, and robbed him of $50. His compartment companions stealthily put him to sleep and slashed his luggage in their search for valuables.

Mellon Visits League, But Is Not Recognized

(Special Cable Dispatch.)
Geneva, Aug. 27.—Secretary of the United States Treasury Andrew Mellon informally and unexpectedly visited the League of Nations today, accompanying Seymour Parker Gilbert, the agent general for the Dawes reparations plan, who interviewed Sir Arthur Salter, director of the League of Nations financial section.

Mr. Mellon was not recognized and returned to Evian-les-Bains by motor this evening. He probably will leave for Paris over the weekend.

Woman in Channel; Conditions Are Ideal

Cape Gris Nez, France, Saturday, Aug. 28 (By A. P.).—Mrs. Crompton Carson started shortly before midnight in an attempt to swim the English channel. Wind and other conditions were ideal. At 2:30 o'clock this morning the swimmer was reported to be making excellent progress and experts expressed the belief that she would make a sensational swim.

SOUTHWEST MARKET BACKERS HOLD LEAD; POLL STOPS TONIGHT

Midcity Supporters Are in Second Place, 7,264
Votes Behind.

6 O'CLOCK DEADLINE
SET FOR BALLOTING

Maj. Grant Sees Increased
Value in Referendum Held by The Post.

The Post market site poll, which closes tonight, came to its final day with supporters of the proposed Southwest site leading those favoring the Midcity site by a wide margin, with only meager and scattering support registered for any of various other proposed sites.

Standing in the poll last night was as follows:
Southwest site, 11,438.
Midcity site, 4,174.
Patterson or Eckington site, 57.
Various other sites, 71.

Total ballots received by The Post market site editor since the poll began ten days ago were 15,740.

Closing Hour Fixed.
The poll will close at 6 o'clock tonight. Ballots must be turned in to the market site editor of The Post before that hour or, if mailed, the envelope must bear a postmark not later than 6 o'clock. Ballots which do not meet these simple requirements will not be counted in the poll.

The closing days of the poll have brought increasing evidences of the widespread public opinion in the question of moving one or more of the major divisions of the Center market district to make room for the new government buildings and permit the government to carry out its plans for the beautification of the Mall, south of Pennsylvania avenue.

The value of the referendum to those government officials charged with responsibility for selecting new sites for the farmers' market and the wholesale and commission house rows, has been increasing daily. Maj. U. S. Grant 3d, officer in charge of public buildings and parks, and executive officer of the National Capital park and planning commission, said yesterday.

Vote Is Real Factor.
Government officials have been somewhat surprised at the public interest indicated by the poll and the large number of ballots cast by the general public has changed the importance of the poll from something like a mere straw vote to a real factor which will be taken into consideration by members of the commission in making a decision.

The District commissioners, the park and planning commission, and the citizens' advisory council have invited citizens' associations, business organizations and civic bodies, as well as individuals to express their opinions on the question. They declare that The Post poll, and other opportunities afforded for expression have been such as completely to bar any complaint from any quarter that public sentiment was not considered.

Study of the ballot received by the market site editor has brought to light evidence of a misunderstanding of the exact situation at

HUSBAND SHOT DEAD AS POLICE STAND BY

Wife Is Charged With Slaying of Negro, Who Led Raid on Home.

In the presence of two policemen who were helping him to raid his wife's apartment, John W. Jenkins, colored, 35 years old, was shot and killed shortly after last midnight. His wife, Mrs. Catherine Mary Jenkins, was arrested on a charge of murder.

Jenkins called at the Second police precinct station and told the desk clerk that there was a man with his wife at 69 L street northwest. Policemen E. K. O'Brien and W. Bower went with him to his home. Bower accompanied him to his room. They knocked and in response to a query from Mrs. Jenkins as to who was there, they announced "Police." A moment later a shot rang out and Jenkins fell at Bower's feet. He died later in Casualty hospital.

Samuel Jones, colored, 21 years old, who police say, was in the room with Mrs. Jenkins, jumped from a second story room and fled. He later was captured and held as a witness.

CATHOLIC ORPHANAGES REFUSE KLAN INVITATION

Ku Klux to Entertain Other
Waifs of City at Circus
Wednesday.

SEEKS BUILDING FUNDS

Two Catholic orphanages have declined the invitation of the Ku Klux Klan for their children to attend a circus sponsored by the Klan at Fifteenth and H streets northeast next Wednesday. It was learned yesterday.

The Klan has arranged transportation and planned to entertain the children of all the city's orphanages. All of the Protestant orphanages are understood to have accepted.

At St. Vincent's Female Orphanage asylum, it was said the invitation had been declined because an "entertainment or something had been planned for them on the grounds Wednesday." St. Joseph's Male Orphan asylum at first accepted the invitation but subsequently declined. Here it was admitted that it was understood that the Klan was giving the entertainment, but at St. Vincent's it was said that the invitation had been extended over the telephone and the identity of the host was not really known.

The Protestant orphanages understood to have accepted are the Baptist Home for Children; St. John's; Children's Emergency Home; Masonic and Eastern Star Home; Swartzell Methodist Home for Children; Washington City Orphanage, and the Washington Home for Children.

The Klan is sponsoring the circus, billed as the Bob Morton Circus and Hippodrome shows, to open Monday, for the purpose of augmenting its building and charity fund, according to L. A. Mueller, head of the local order.

It is planned to erect a building costing approximately $200,000 to serve as the home for the local order. The plans have not yet taken definite shape, but it is intended to locate the building as near the downtown section as possible.

It is to be strictly a home for the local organization. It is said, the national body being content with its quarters at Eighteenth and I streets northwest. Temporary local quarters have been maintained for more than a year in a small suite in the International building. They are said to be wholly inadequate.

Elaborate arrangements have been made for the entertainment of the children. The Yellow and Black and White taxicab companies, the Gray Line Cab Co., Packard Motor Car Co., Emerson & Orme, Sterrett & Co., and the Washington Railway & Electric Co. are to donate the means of conveyance to and from the grounds.

Several thousand Klansmen from the District, Maryland and Virginia are expected to attend a general frolic at Chesapeake Beach today, under the auspices of the Hyattsville Klan, No. 2. Special trains will be operated. Full Klan regalia will be worn.

There is also to be a Klan parade and ceremonial at Laurel, Md., tonight.

This brought withdrawals on the current movement to $20,000,000.

Recalls Witness Who Could

Denies Absolving Widow.

Special to The Washington Post.
Somerville, N. J., Aug. 27.—Twenty-four eye-witnesses of the Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills were being sought tonight in three States. They are men and women who were making love along Derussey's lane, near New Brunswick, N. J., the night of September 14, 1922, when the Episcopalian rector and his choir singer sweetheart were shot to death. Police Inspector John J. Underwood made known today at Somerville that the double slaying was actually witnessed by many persons who have concealed their presence at the scene because of the fear of disclosure of what they were doing there.

"We have men working in three States, New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania," said Underwood. "They are rounding up two dozen witnesses to the murder. Derussey's lane was choked with people that night. Don't you remember O'Rourke's testimony?"

The inspector referred to Peter C. O'Rourke, New Brunswick contractor, a witness at the preliminary examination of Willie Stevens and Henry Carpenter.

Lane Was Crowded.

O'Rourke said he was driving up Easton avenue the night of the murder and saw a man and woman, resembling Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills, standing on the sidewalk in excited colloquy with a third woman, who looked like Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, the clergyman's wife. "You will recall," Inspector Underwood resumed, "that O'Rourke said he couldn't get up the lane, it was so crowded."

"You mean the people who were on the lane that night are the eye-witnesses your detectives are looking for?" he was asked.

"Yes," Underwood answered. He would not divulge the identity of any of the witnesses.

Senator Alexander Simpson, special prosecutor, was disturbed today over the construction placed on his statement that Mrs. Hall had not gone to the Phillips farm with intent to murder.

Simpson absolved the clergyman's widow from premeditation in his argument Thursday at Somerville before Supreme Court Justice Parker, who refused to admit Willie Stevens, Mrs. Hall's brother, and Carpenter, her cousin, to bail.

Simpson Clears Statement.

"This statement," said Simpson, "is not to be construed as meaning that Mrs. Hall is eliminated as first degree participant."

"The law in New Jersey is that no appreciable elements of time need exist between the formation of a design to kill and its execution."

"There is the further fact to be considered that in our law all who

Cabinet Decides to Raise
$25,000,000 for Domestic Purposes.

(Special Cable Dispatch.)
Peking, Aug. 27.—Despite the American embassy, the Chinese cabinet has decided to proceed with the issuance of rates for a $25,000,000 loan, to be used for domestic purposes, ignoring China's unpaid creditors. Great Britain, Japan and France are preparing protests in support of the American position.

The retreat to Hankow of the northern armies supporting Marshal Wu Pei Fu, fighting the Cantonese armies, continues, despite the fact that they have been reinforced by troops of Gen. Su Chuan-Pang. Marshal Wu is begging them to attack in force. He also is sending a new commander to the Hankow region. Although the northern forces now total 150,000 men, the swift onrush of the bolshevik Cantoneses prevents the majority from reaching the southern bank of the Yangtze river.

NICARAGUA ASKS LEAGUE HELP, ACCUSING MEXICO

Protest Says Calles Warship Aids Rebels in Government Plot.

TWO AMERICANS INJURED

Geneva, Switzerland, Aug. 27 (By A. P.).—The American continent suddenly and sensationally entered the domain of possible League of Nations political activities today when Nicaragua filed a protest against Mexico, alleging a freebooting expedition by an auxiliary Mexican warship to help Nicaraguan revolutionaries overthrow the government.

Nicaragua in its note of protest does not request specific league action, but Sir Eric Drummond, secretary general of the league, has forwarded the protest to all the members of the organization, as well as Mexico, a member. The secretary general has also communicated to the Mexican government, that, in accordance with the regular procedure of the league, Mexico may forward to league members any communication which it may consider desirable in connection with the Nicaraguan note.

The league covenant provides that nonmembers shall be invited to accept the obligation of membership in case of a dispute between members and nonmembers.

This is the first time a Latin American dispute has come before the league and so opens the question as to what attitude the league will adopt in a dispute arising on the American continent. The covenant prohibits any action affecting the validity of the Monroe doctrine.

The league is awaiting an answer to the Nicaraguan accusation, so that both sides may be told. There is speculation as to whether the protest will merge into a definite appeal for investigation by the council as a matter affecting friendly relations, especially as the Nicaraguan foreign minister has denounced Mexico to the world as having flagrantly violated the rights of the Nicaraguan republic by the use of force.

Should this occur, the council would make an investigation and recommend such action as seemed best. Then, if Mexico refused to accept temporary membership in the league and resorted to war, league penalties would operate against her.

The note of the Nicaraguan foreign minister concludes:
"I have sent a strong protest to the Mexican government in regard to its illegal conduct and I denounce it to the world for having

LEWIS DEMANDS ILLINOIS MINERS' PRESIDENT QUIT

Feud With Farrington
Reaches Head as Chief
Seeks to Oust Him.

$25,000 JOB QUESTIONED

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 27 (By A. P.).—A long-smoldering feud between John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, and Frank Farrington, president of the Illinois district of the mine workers, became an open schism today when Lewis requested the executive board of the Illinois district to obtain Farrington's resignation or dismiss him as president.

Lewis accompanied his demand, according to members of the executive board, with charges over his signature that Farrington was in the employ of the Peabody Coal Co. of Chicago at $25,000 a year on a three-year contract.

Farrington, who is in Paris in the midst of a European tour, was called by the executive board as a result of the evidence a message asking him if he did not intend to resign. An official then announced "that we expect Farrington's resignation at any time."

The carrying of Lewis' enmity for Farrington before the executive board of the district mine workers followed several years of ill-concealed strife between the two, dating from the time when Lewis and Farrington were regarded as rivals.

VIVIAN DUNCAN HURT WHEN AUTOS CRASH

Musical Comedy Star in Hospital After Collision; Companion Slightly Injured.

Oxnard, Calif., Aug. 27 (By A. P.).—Vivian Duncan, of the Duncan sisters, musical comedy actress, was in a hospital here today following an automobile collision last night in which she and Vernon Rickard, of the "Topsy and Eva" company, were hurt.

In addition to cuts and bruises, Miss Duncan was said by hospital physicians to have suffered a fracture of the skull. Rickard, who was driving, was not seriously injured.

Police are searching for the driver of the other machine, who is said to have disappeared after removing the identification tag from his automobile and abandoning it.

Miss Duncan was returning from San Francisco, where she had gone to bid farewell to her sister, Rosetta, who left for New York.

Hawaiian Flight Hero Was Gliding to Land at Navy Yard.

LEFT WASHINGTON
ON INSPECTION TRIP

Eberle Condoles Admiral
Rodgers, Whose Son Was Navy Aviation Pioneer.

Philadelphia, Aug. 27 (By A. P.). Commander John Rodgers, hero of the San Francisco-Hawaii flight, is dead.

The brave and resourceful naval aviator who warded off death on the broad Pacific ocean was killed as a result of a drop in a land plane into shallow water of the Delaware river this afternoon. He was so critically injured that death overtook him in the Naval hospital in two hours. He died at 5 o'clock.

Samuel Schultze, of Philadelphia, his mechanic, with a broken back, lay near death tonight in the hospital of the Philadelphia navy yard, near which the accident occurred.

Eyewitnesses differ on the distance the commander fell, but most of them agree it was between 30 and 150 feet, as he was gliding to make a landing.

Board of Inquest Called.

A naval board of inquest was called immediately, and it was announced that no public statement would be made until a report was presented to the Secretary of the Navy and Rear Admiral W. A. Moffett, chief of the bureau of aeronautics.

The cause of death, so far as navy surgeons could determine tonight, was hemorrhages due to broken ribs puncturing vital organs. Many of the ribs on one side were crushed in. One of his legs was broken in two places and cut open.

The famous commander suffered great pain and was unconscious at intervals, but he was able in the true navy fashion to give fragments of information to naval officers as his life ebbed away.

Commander Rodgers was just ending a flight from the Anacostia field, Washington, D. C., to inspect at the aircraft factory in the navy yard some new planes of the type used on the historic cross-Pacific flight. His coming here was known only to the immediate officers at the yard concerned in his movements, and many of the officers and sailors who happened to be near the river front of the navy yard did not know it was the intrepid Rodgers that was going to his death as the plane fell.

Every resource of the big yard was brought into play in the rescue. The commander was pinned in the cockpit for nearly an hour and suffered untold agony as officers and sailors worked up to their necks in water to free him.

Only Leg Seemed Broken.

"Go easy, boys," he said, "I'm caught somewhere." No further time was lost and the fuselage of the ship was literally torn apart with tools to get the navy officer out. When he was freed, and a brief examination made, it was announced he had suffered only a broken leg, and a sigh of relief went up. Later, it was cautiously stated that he was suffering greatly from shock and that a more thorough examination might show serious injuries. No further word came from the hospital until the announcement he had died. At first it was not believed, but naval surgeons sadly confirmed the news.

Today the commander flew a land plane of the VE type. He followed the historic Delaware river on his way to the navy yard after crossing the State of Delaware. The Philadelphia navy yard's landing field stretches along the river for some distance and when the commander was sighted he was descending to make a landing on the broad stretch of grassy ground.

A few officers and men watched the arrival and saw the plane go into a slow glide. It was over the river and pointed toward the field. Suddenly it was noticed that something was wrong, and before any one could realize it the plane shot downward into about 3 1/2 feet of water and approximately 100 feet from shore.

Commander Rodgers and Schultze, strapped to their seats, were unable to do anything to save themselves. When it settled in the river the

GEN. AMOS A. FRIES AND HARLAN WOOD LEGION CANDIDATES

Capt. J. I. Peyser Withdraws;
Howard S. Fisk Is Not Placed in Nomination.

VETERANS VOTE TONIGHT
FOR DEPARTMENT HEAD

Col. Mitchell Is Delegate to National Convention; Paris
Meeting Plans Indorsed.

Capt. Julius I. Peyser, for the past year commander of the district of Columbia department of the American Legion, declined the nomination for reelection at the annual department convention, which opened last night in the Central high school auditorium.

His withdrawal left two candidates to battle for the office—Harlan Wood, of the McGroarty-O'Connell post, and Maj. Gen. Amos A. Fries, of the National Press Club post. Contrary to expectations, Howard S. Fisk, of the George Washington post, was not nominated. The election will be held tonight.

Other features of the opening session were an announcement that the legion would carry out its plan to hold the 1927 convention in Paris; the nomination of Col. William Mitchell, famous critic of the army air service, as delegate to the national convention in Philadelphia; and a decision to present the name of Gen. John J. Pershing for national commander provided there is no opposition to him.

Women Join in Parade.

A colorful parade, beginning at Columbia road and Baltimore street and ending at the auditorium, preceded the convention. Fully one-third of the marchers were women. Martial music was furnished by the drum corps of the Vincent B. Costello post and the McGroarty-O'Connell post.

Capt. Peyser, in withdrawing from the race for the office of commander, said that he had consented to throw his hat in the ring several weeks ago at the request of friends in the Costello post and against his "better judgment." He was withdrawing, he said, because he did not think that any commander ought to accept the nomination for a second term.

The auditorium took on the air of a Democratic national convention when Harlan Wood was placed in nomination. His supporters set up a terrific clamor, which was intensified by the booming of drums and the crashing of cymbals. There was another demonstration when Gen. Fries was nominated.

There was much electioneering at the convention last night and both the supporters of Wood and those of Fries were claiming victory. The big question mark concerning Capt. Peyser, or more specifically, to whom will he throw his strength, it is not expected that there will be any bitterness exhibited in the election, because Wood and Fries are close friends.

Ovation for Col. Mitchell.

Col. Mitchell received an ovation at the convention. His nomination for delegate to the national convention was made by Daniel S. Ring, of the Costello post.

Next to the fight for commander, the most exacting struggle is expected to come over the election of national executive committee members. Three men were nominated for this office—Paul McGahan, the incumbent; Capt. Peyser and Frank L.

START OF PARADE AND PROMINENT LEGIONNAIRES

Peckham. The man who is elected will go to the Paris convention with all expenses paid.

Nominees for senior vice commander were J. Thad Baker, of the Sgt. Jasper post, and Thomas Cogswell, of the Augustus P. Gardner post; for junior vice commander, Commander Thomas Walsh, of the Costello post, and Charles Hillegeist, of the Quentin Roosevelt post; for third vice commander, Commander Esther Hall, of the Jacob Jones post, and Alice Prentiss, of the Belau Wood post.

Delegates to Convention.

Those nominated for delegates to the national convention were as follows: Capt. Peyser and the commander who succeeds him, Col. William Mitchell, Howard Fisk, Mario Ventura, W. C. Pickett, Joseph J. Idler, George J. Rycraw, Esther Hall, Alice M. Prentiss, T. Norman Templeton, Harlan Wood, George D. Frailey, alternates, the Rev. Francis J. Hurney, Helen McCarthy, Joseph T. Dailey, W. A. Kohoe, Charles L. Riemer, Robert M. Zacharias, F. G. Frazier, William F. Franklin, and Floyd Woolley.

The Rev. Dr. Bernard Cartwright, of St. Patrick's church, pronounced the invocation. Tonight's session will start at 7.30 o'clock. Col. Hanford MacNider, Assistant Secretary of War, will speak.

Better Judgment Prevails.

Capt. Peyser, in withdrawing as a candidate, prepared the following statement for delivery before the convention last night: "About a month ago I was persuaded by the Costello post to be their candidate for reelection. I argued against it, submitting the fact that I did not believe that any one comrade should hold the office for a period of more than one term. I was convinced against my better judgment and gave the committee upon me my answer that I would permit my name to be submitted for reelection. Since that time I had the pledge of sufficient votes that would elect me on the first ballot. It is a joy that I can not roughly throw aside.

"I thank those comrades who are willing to elect me. I thank them with the inner feelings of my better self for the great fervor and loyalty they have shown to me in the past and which they are willing to show me at the present time by electing me to the high office. Loyalty is a religious principle in this great life of ours, and I would be derelict in my duty if I did not say that I appreciate the same and am more than thankful.

Cites Sportsmanship.

"There is another proposition which men and women of the world call sportsmanship. I do not ever want to be considered lacking in that qualification. I think in every game and in every opportunity sportsmanship is necessary. My better judgment, therefore, tells me that no comrade ought to accept the nomination for a second term.

"It sets a very bad precedent and one that might eventually weaken the organization. My affection for the American legion is such that would not permit the taking of chances and, therefore, I have arrived at the very definite conclusion that it would be best not to set such a precedent."

20-Day Term Given For Theft of Milk

Thomas W. Hurst, who said he lived at the Soldiers' home, was sentenced to serve 20 days in jail yesterday by Judge Macdonald in police court for the alleged theft of a pint of milk. The judge recommended that the man, who appeared to be highly nervous, be given hospital treatment.

Policeman C. L. Smith, of the Sixth precinct, told Judge Macdonald that he saw Hurst tuck the milk bottle under his arm in front of a store at 315 H street northwest.

According to the policeman, he chased the man for six blocks before catching him.

TELEPHONE COMPANY ASKS DELAY ON HEARING

Wants No Revision on Rates
Until After Appeal on Revaluation.

EXPECTS DECISION SOON

Application was made yesterday to the public utilities commission by Attorney George F. Horner for the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. for postponement of the hearing set for September 15 on the proposed revision of the telephone rates. Delay was asked until the District supreme court decides the appeal pending of the company from the last revaluation of the company's property, which last year resulted in an order by the commission to reduce rates for residence telephones.

The question was referred to Corporation Counsel Francis H. Stephens for recommendation. Mr. Stephens said yesterday that he had considered the matter but had not yet formulated advice for the commission.

The case was argued before Judge Walter I. McCoy last January, he declared. "The court took the appeal under advisement and a decision is expected in October. What the commission should do has not yet been decided."

Col. Mitchell Defies Aero Body Opponents

In an address yesterday before the Loyal Knights of the Round Table at the University club, William Mitchell former colonel in the air service, uttered what was tantamount to defiance, to those who would keep him from the presidency of the National Aeronautical association.

Means of Pleasure.

The movement to convert the old Aqueduct bridge in Georgetown into a municipal pier has been revived and Mrs. Fred T. Dubois, 3114 R street northwest, one of the advocates, has requested Maj. U. S. Grant 3d, for the assistance of the National Capital park and planning commission and office of Public buildings and public parks in the project.

Mrs. Dubois, who sponsored early Washington playground movements 20 years ago, has called the city's attention to the comfort and pleasure to be derived from municipal piers such as enjoyed by New York, Chicago, Boston and Atlantic City and believes that the iron work from the old bridge may be used in the construction.

Maj. Grant explained that the project must be referred to the United States engineers' office with reference to the Aqueduct bridge feature and to the District commissioners for consideration of the pier plan.

NEW-BORN BABY MISSING; MOTHER HELD BY POLICE

Mrs. V. E. Cunningham and Another Woman Arrested
After Disappearance.

SAYS DOCTOR TOOK CHILD

The disappearance of a baby boy a few hours after his birth yesterday morning has resulted in the arrest of the child's mother, Mrs. Virginia E. Cunningham, 31 years old, 318 Ninth street northeast, and Miss Thelma Jenkins, 22 years old, of the same address.

Mrs. Cunningham and Miss Jenkins were arrested at their home by Headquarters Detectives Patrick O'Brien and Thomas Nalley. Both are held for investigation.

Mrs. Cunningham told police that the baby was taken from her side by a doctor whose name she said she did not know. The doctor was accompanied by another man, whom she did not know. Mrs. Cunningham told police. Police were ordered to investigate the case after Mrs. Mary Lynch, owner of the Ninth street home, had reported the mysterious disappearance of the child.

Mrs. Lynch said she heard the cries of a new-born baby about 4 o'clock yesterday morning. Mrs. Cunningham, she said, told her the baby had been taken to Columbia hospital by the physician and his friend. Police were unable to find the baby there. Miss Jenkins told police that she knew nothing of the birth of the child.

WIFE FINDS GROCER HANGING IN CELLAR

Girls Declare Decline in Business Cause of Their Father's Suicide.

Alarmed at the prolonged absence of her husband, Vincent Cirone, 42, from the grocery store he conducted at 1149 Third street northwest, his wife, Mrs. Beatrice Cirone, conducted a search of the premises and discovered his lifeless body dangling from a rope in the cellar, used as a banana storage vault.

Mrs. Cirone immediately cut the body down and called the police, collapsing as they entered. She became so hysterical that police advised her to go to Gallinger hospital for treatment.

According to Cirone's two daughters, Margaret, 14 years old, and Catherine, 17, their father had been despondent recently because he was not making enough money at his place of business and was finding difficulty in selling the place. The last they saw of their father alive was in the morning, when he told them he was going to do some painting. Coroner Nevitt issued a certificate of death by suicide.

Fraternity Activity For Year Reviewed

National activities of the Sigma Lambda Nu commercial fraternity during the last year were reviewed yesterday at the first business meeting of the convention in the Washington hotel, when reports of secretaries were read.

Following the meeting, the 100 delegates visited Mount Vernon for a sightseeing tour. Last night the annual dance of the fraternity was held on the hotel roof. The convention will close tonight with a banquet which will follow the annual election of officers.

FENNING CLASHES WITH AUDITOR DAVIS ON 10 PER CENT FEE

Former Commissioner Obtains
Order for Special Review of Accounts With Veterans.

FIGHTS TO AVOID CUT
TO 5 PER CENT CHARGE

Court Official Sought Proof of Claim of "Special Service" to All Wards.

An open breach has occurred between former Commissioner Fenning and Auditor Herbert L. Davis, of the District Supreme court, over the former's guardianship business, it developed yesterday. Mr. Fenning asked for and was given by Justice Bailey, "protection" from the auditor, in that two attorneys were named to audit his accounts. Mr. Fenning contended that the auditor was charging excessive fees for examining his cases, and "the spirit exhibited by the present auditor toward this committee (Fenning) prompts the committee to invoke the protection of the court by asking a reference to a special auditor."

Justice Bailey named George C. Gertman, secretary of the District Bar association, to examine the accounts of fifteen Mr. Fenning's wards, and George Francis Williams, another attorney, was given six.

The split resulted from Mr. Davis' practice of allowing Mr. Fenning but 5 per cent commission for his cases and in making an investigation to determine the amount of "personal service" rendered on which Mr. Fenning based his claim to the full 10 per cent commission.

Still Asks 10 Per Cent.

Despite the criticism by members of Congress against the 10 per cent fee which Mr. Fenning had been receiving and the expressions that 5 per cent was enough, Mr. Fenning is still presenting claims for 10 per cent, it was learned.

But the method of handling his cases has been changed. It had been the practice of two members of the court to accept Mr. Fenning's statement that "personal services" had been rendered to the ward and to direct that he be given a fee of 10 per cent in the great majority of his cases before the papers were referred to the auditor.

Since the congressional investigations, however, the papers now are first submitted to the auditor, who checks the accounts and recommends the amount of fee for Mr. Fenning. This was formerly the practice. When Mr. Davis was again given first charge of Mr. Fenning's reports he returned to his practice, which caused some disagreement between him and Mr. Fenning several years ago, of allowing only 5 per cent unless some exceptional service was rendered.

This amount, it was developed in the congressional hearings, is more than the average trust company charges, and Mr. Fenning's service to his wards was likened to that of a trust company.

Claims Closely Scrutinized.

Following the investigations, the auditor has insisted upon closely looking into Mr. Fenning's claim of "personal service" stated in each of his accounts, with resultant increased work, for which the auditor increased his charge.

Considerable extra work, too, it was contended, was placed on the auditor's office in the reopening of all of Mr. Fenning's accounts going back for twelve or thirteen years to return the bond commission to the wards which it was held he had retained improperly.

The veterans' bureau which, under the new policy, now receives a copy of Mr. Fenning's reports, has protested against the 10 per cent fee, and in the meantime is relieving Mr. Fenning of the custody of world war veterans by transferring them to other jurisdictions.

War Mothers Plan Drive.

A new membership drive was agreed upon at the bimonthly business meeting of the War Mothers, held in the Lee house last night. The president, Mrs. E. C. Wagner, reported on the dedication of the new home in Denver, Colo., for the mothers of former service men.

Charleston's Beauty Can Not "Charleston"

Miss Charleston can't "charleston-top." The pretty brunette representative of the South Carolina city, home of the famous dance, who will vie for the honor of Miss America at the Atlantic City beauty pageant next month, stopped off in this city yesterday and met Washington's representative. Then the secret came out.

Miss Dorothy Brickmann, 17 years old, is Miss Charleston. She was chosen to represent the city when she won a beauty contest staged by a Charleston newspaper in which more than 200 were entered. Miss Brickmann terms herself "just a poor shop girl."

Miss Marjorie Joesting, otherwise Miss Washington, called at the Mayflower hotel, where Miss Brickmann was stopping, to pay her respects. Photographers were on hand, and asked the two to pose. "Get into a charleston pose, Miss Charleston," called one of the cameramen, and to the surprise of all, Miss Brickmann admitted in a sweet, low voice, "I can't charleston."

Japanese Beetle Found in Petworth

A Japanese beetle, the most dreaded of all insect pests in this country, was discovered recently in a Petworth rose garden near the Soldiers' home. It was announced yesterday by the bureau of entomology of the Department of Agriculture. Following the discovery a crew of men searched continuously for two weeks in the Soldiers' home and Rock Creek park grounds and garden in the locality of where the discovery was made, but were unable to find other specimens.

The pest, which invaded great areas in Pennsylvania and New Jersey and worked its way south as far as northern Maryland this year, is almost impossible to eliminate. It attacks more than 100 specimens of crop plants and trees and easily gains a foothold.

Star's Appearance Have Been Received.

Special to The Washington Post.
New York, Aug. 27.—Dudley Field Malone, counsel for Miss Gertrude Ederle, in discussing today the offers of contracts made to her, said they aggregated $900,000. Dozens of additional offers were received at her home by telephone, telegraph and mail after Mr. Malone disclosed the figures.

He said that among the offers was one of $125,000 for a 20 weeks' appearance on the stage, an offer from the Sequental exhibition for swimming exhibitions and another theatrical offer of a 40-week contract.

Miss Ederle probably will close negotiations on one of the offers within the next few days, Mr. Malone said.

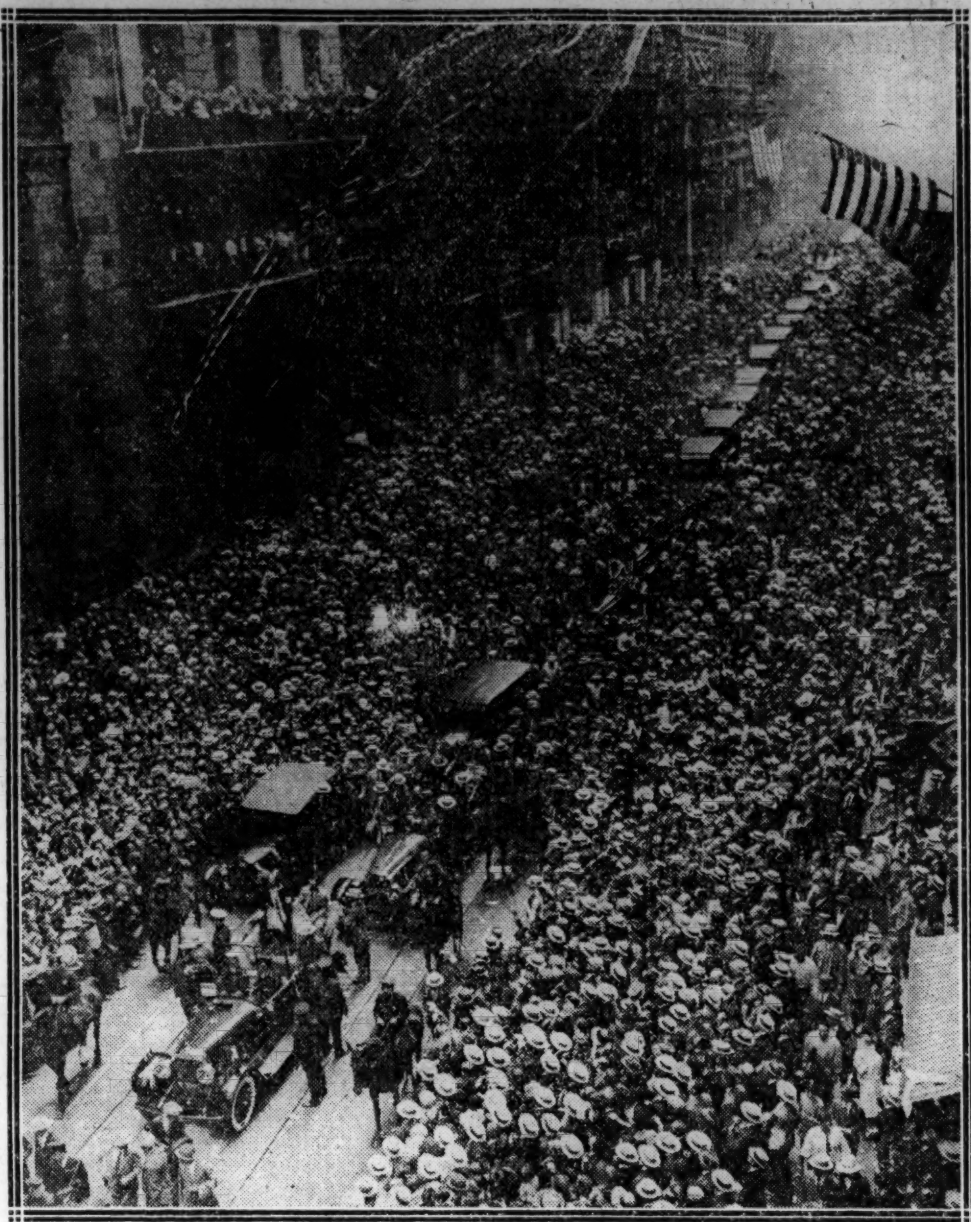

Greeted by Great Throng.
New York, Aug. 27 (By A. P.).—Gertrude Ederle was given a homecoming ovation today such as New York never before has given a woman.

Packed throngs that witnessed her triumphant procession up the canyon of lower Broadway were estimated as greater than those that welcomed returning heroes of the world war. It was the day of days for the youthful swimmer, who was the first of her sex to conquer the English channel, and in a time better than any man had ever achieved.

A triumphant parade, brass bands, fluttering flags, showers of confetti and ticker tape and thunderous shouts of applause marked her progress up the famous thoroughfare.

The crowd that gathered outside the city hall, where Mayor Walker presented her with a scroll commemorating her deed, reached such proportions that 100 extra police were called to prevent serious trouble. Six women and children were injured when crushed in the mass of humanity. Fences were broken down under the windows of the city hall and the doors were stormed after they had been closed following the welcoming ceremonies.

CHANNEL SWIMMER JUBILANTLY WELCOMED HOME

Gertrude Ederle, waving her greetings from the first automobile in the procession to the cheering mass of humanity that greeted "Trudy's" triumphant procession up lower Broadway yesterday, following her return from Europe and her swim of the English channel.

Neighbors Are Jubilant.

Later Trudy's arrival at her home in upper Amsterdam avenue was the occasion of a jubilant celebration by her neighbors. Ederle turned out to the number of 42, sisters, cousins and aunts, not to mention uncles and brothers, according to one of them counting noses on the two tugs that bore the big reception committee down the river this morning. On the Macom, with the mayor's committee, headed by Grover Whalen, was Mrs. Ederle, with two sisters and two brothers of "Trudy's" and a dozen or so of the closest of the clan. Mrs. Ederle, tearful and excited, declared herself "the proudest mother in the world today."

When the tug drew alongside of the Berengaria just before noon, and the mother hurried across the gangplank to meet her daughter, the young queen of the channel declared herself "the happiest girl in the world today, to have Mom again."

Although sirens shrieked on half a dozen encircling tugs, airplanes hummed overhead, fire boats played all their fountain hose, speed boats passed and repassed, bands played and crowds cheered in as great a display as the harbor has ever seen.

Mother's "Water Baby."

Trudy for a few minutes after the reunion clung only to her mother. "Gee, it's good to have you again, Mom. Don't go," she cried as with wet eyes, she kissed her mother repeatedly. Together they faced the impatient battery of cameras.

Miss Ederle, a "water baby" to her mother, nineteen years ago, when she cried at being lifted out of her little tin tub, today was a very smartly clad, good looking young mermmaid. A glance would scarcely serve to stamp her as an athlete of such prowess as to defeat channel waves and men's records at once. Her sturdy, but not over-large figure was clad in a simple blue serge, her attractive oval face framed in an orchid-colored felt hat becoming to her fair skin, bobbed brown hair and blue eyes. She wore gray stockings and shoes, and a painted pastel scarf, and carried a modish French novelty doll under her arm. "Pop" Ederle, a plump, smiling rear guard, wore a new light gray suit of overseas origin.

"I was interested only in swimming while I was abroad, up to the time I made the swim," Miss Ederle told half a hundred reporters who asked her about her trip. "I had no time for shopping or sightseeing or anything."

"While I was swimming the channel I was sure I would succeed. After the first morning, it was rough the whole way. But I never wanted to get out of the water for a moment, and I felt fine when I got up on the beach."

"The criticism made that two tugs helped me in the swim by protecting me is absurd, and its maker was apologized to me. When the two tugs were one on either side of me I could do nothing, as I got the wash from both, so I had to ask them to get in single file."

"I did it all for America and for the American flag," Gertrude concluded.

WOMAN ATTORNEY, 22, FOUND SHOT TO DEATH

Victim, on Way to California
With Students, Dies in Oklahoma Town.

KILLED IN HOTEL ROOM

Childress, Tex., Aug. 27 (By A. P.).—"A cheerful journey" into the West to take up new work ended abruptly in death here today for Miss Lila Clark Franklin, 22, girl lawyer of Ardmore, Okla., who was found dead in a hotel. She had been shot through the heart, but officials were unable to determine whether death was due to accident or suicide.

Miss Franklin, whose mother resides in Albuquerque, N. Mex., arrived here after midnight last night in an automobile with Norman T. Spann, 24, and Carl Farmer, 22, of Headland, Ala. Hotel employees found her this morning lying dead on the bed in her room, face downward, with a small caliber automatic pistol beneath her. She had been dead several hours.

Spann said that he and Farmer went to Ardmore yesterday to take Miss Franklin on their trip to California, where the young men expected to enter the law school of the University of Southern California.

"She was cheerful all the way and glad she was going to California, where an uncle and a brother reside," said Spann. She expected to practice law there, and considered it a great journey, he added.

A coroner's jury returned a verdict of death by gunshot wound, but left the cause open.

The pistol which killed the young woman was one she brought with her. Before leaving Ardmore, she remarked that it needed repairing, and there was some belief that she was working with it and that it accidentally discharged.

Spann and Farmer were requested by the sheriff to remain in Childress until arrival of Miss Franklin's mother.

Deputy Kills Another.

Mobile, Ala., Aug. 27 (By A. P.).—W. O. Robbins, Jr., chief deputy sheriff for Mobile county was fatally wounded tonight when he was shot by Deputy Sheriff J. L. Stringfellow during a raid. The shooting was accidental, as Stringfellow mistook Robbins for an escaping man. Robbins died at a hospital.

VALENTINO'S FUNERAL POSTPONED TWO DAYS

Services Set for Wednesday in Hope Brother From Italy
Will Arrive.

FEW ARE AT THE CHAPEL

New York, Aug. 27 (By A. P.). The burial of Rudolph Valentino was postponed until Wednesday to await the arrival of Alberto Guglielmi, the actor's brother, who is on his way here from Italy. The funeral will be held Monday, as previously announced by S. George Ullman, Valentino's manager, and the body will be taken back to Campbell's funeral parlors.

Mr. Ullman obtained from Health Commissioner Harris late this afternoon a second 24-hour extension of time for the burial on the ground that the body is not to be shown again to the public.

Dr. Harris said he could grant the extension because death was not caused by a contagious disease.

If Valentino's brother does not arrive on scheduled time, the body will be taken to a vault in Woodlawn cemetery and then disposed of according to his wishes.

Most of the policemen on duty at the undertaking establishment where the body now lies were transferred to duty in the home neighborhood of Gertrude Ederle, the channel swimmer. Only a few persons remained about the funeral parlors. No one was admitted without invitation.

Joseph M. Schenck, chairman of the board of directors of the United Artists Corporation, said he had received hundreds of requests to have the body buried in Hollywood.

CROWDS SEE DEATH OF GIRL REENACTED BY BROKER, SLAYER

1,500 Gather in France, for Dramatic Spectacle
in a Field.

STRANGLER HIS VICTIM
WHILE DRIVING AN AUTO

Body Is Placed Beside Stack
of Hay, Which Is Fired,
"By Accident."

Meaux, France, Aug. 27 (By A. P.).—The brutal slaying of a simple country girl by her rich admirer from the city was reenacted in a field near this city today, while a crowd of 1,500 persons, Parisians and peasants, gazed on the spectacle morbidly. In Paris, some 25 miles away, and in all the big cities and towns of France, millions of other folk eagerly awaited details of the spectacle in the afternoon papers.

Gaston Guyot, wealthy Paris stock broker, has confessed to strangling Marie Louise Beulguet, while motoring with her on the evening of August 13. He said he had placed the body near a haystack in the field, which later was burned. The prisoner was brought from his prison cell to show the police how it all was done.

A steady stream of automobiles came from Paris bearing spectators and all the roads around resounded with the clapping of the sabots of the villagers hurrying to the spectacle.

Policeman in Girl's Part.
Guyot's long red automobile was brought out by the police and the accused placed at the wheel. A big policeman sat beside him playing the role of the dead girl. Guyot then was told to demonstrate how he had strangled his sweetheart with his right hand and drove with his left. Unperturbed, Guyot stepped on the gas, pretended to argue with the policeman, and gripping the wheel with his left hand reached over with his right and clutched the thick-necked gendarme by the throat.

Guyot told the police that he thus choked the girl to death with his relentless grasp. When she slumped down in her seat, dead, he said he turned off on a side road and stopped by a haystack. With much animation, he showed how he dragged the body of the girl from the car and placed it on the new-mown stubble near a haystack which was found completely burned when the body was discovered by the police.

Then the police brought out bales of hay with which they reconstructed the stack so that Guyot might even more vividly reconstruct the scene. He explained that he did not intend to set fire to the haystack on the evening of the crime. He said it was an accident.

Turning to a newspaper man, he borrowed a match to light his pipe and then tossed it aside carelessly on the new stacked hay. The haystack immediately caught fire and burned to the ground.

A chemist ran up and took specimens of the smoke in jars, indicating that the defense might contend the girl died of asphyxiation, Guyot then explained to the police that if he had wanted to burn the body he would have surrounded it more carefully with the hay.

After the spectacle was all over, the peasant and the city folk sat down to lunches under the nearby trees. A charabanc loaded with American tourists on the way to the Marne battlefields drew up. The guide pointed out one sight not on the usual program. And just then the farmer who owned the haystack, rushing up to Guyot, demanded 22,500 francs for the hay that was burned on the night of the crime. The millionaire broker, with an air of disdain, turned from the indignant farmer to the police officials and said:

"Go ahead, pay him. I'm above such details."

JOHN L. LEWIS ASKS FARRINGTON TO QUIT

for the international presidency of the mine workers, which Lewis won. The break between Farrington and Lewis was foreseen by some members of the organization several weeks ago, when Vice President Harry Fishwick, of the district miners began to designate himself after Farrington's departure for Europe, as "acting president," and when State Senator William J. Sneed, of Herrin, reputed friend of Lewis, announced his candidacy for president of the district workers.

The election is to be held in November. Sneed announced his candidacy with a reference to the Farrington-Lewis breach, and declared the miners must enter with a united front an impending wage scale conference with operators.

Lewis, on his way from Indianapolis national headquarters, to his home here for the week-end, refused today to discuss the break.

Desperadoes in Two Battles

LATER FREE CAPTIVES

Muskogee, Okla., Aug. 27 (By A. P.).—Eluding posses made up of nearly 100 men, two desperadoes, believed to be members of the gang that Wednesday robbed two Covington, Okla., banks, late today had escaped into the hills of western Arkansas, after wounding three officers, one fatally, commandeering their car and kidnapping one of them.

Two pitched battles between the outlaws and their pursuers were held in the course of the day, one in Sequoyah county, Okla., the other near Rudy, Ark.

Descriptions of Martin and George Kimes, ex-convicts in the Arkansas State penitentiary, are said to parallel those of the hunted men closely.

Police Chief J. C. Wall, of Sallisaw, and Perry Chuculate and Bert Cotton, Sequoyah county deputy sheriffs, were wounded in the first engagement with the men. Chuculate died early tonight at Fort Smith, Ark. The outlaws then took the officers' car and fled, forcing Wall to accompany them.

Wall was slightly wounded in the shoulder. Soon afterwards they picked up a farmer who was walking along the highway and added him to the party, presumably as a guide through the hilly country.

Wall, wounded in the shoulder, was flung from the car at Petersburg, Ark. It was said his condition was not serious. The farmer was believed to have been released previously.

Shots were exchanged with possemen when they closed in on the fugitives a half mile north of Rudy. The pursued men whipped their car around and escaped. No one was injured in the interchange.

In the car abandoned by the outlaws was found a bag of money. Several rolls of coins were wrapped in papers bearing the name of the Covington Ice Co. Leading officers believe that the fugitives were responsible for the robbery of the banks there.

FILIPINOS REBUDED BY GOV. GEN. WOOD FOR MORO DISORDER

Open-Air Inquiry Held Into Disturbance on Visit of Thompson.

MOHAMMEDANS UPHELD; NARROW ESCAPE IS SEEN

Serious Conflict Threatened When Christians Rushed to Pier to Greet Envoy.

(Special Cable Dispatch.)

Zamboanga, Aug. 27.—By returning posthaste on the yacht Apo and conducting a special inquiry, resembling a military investigation, Gov. Gen. Leonard Wood helped to establish the fact that both the Christian Filipinos and the Moros were to blame for the disturbance which nearly upset the visit of Col. Carmi A. Thompson, President Coolidge's personal investigator, to Zamboanga.

The governor heard the Moros accuse their lighter-hued cousins of arousing their tempers by breaking an agreement at the demonstration for Col. Thompson.

Gov. Aseniero was delayed in his appearance because he was escorting Col. Thompson on a tour, and before his arrival Gov. Wood expressed his approval of the conduct of the Moros.

Gov. Aseniero gave a good account of himself, which, however, failed to satisfy the governor general, who reprimanded the Filipino.

Demonstrators Imported.

Nevertheless, Senor Inamui showed that Datu Mandi, who is a Moro leader and friendly to America, financed a systematic plan for bringing the Moros from the adjoining islands to stop the independence demonstration. The naturally aroused the Filipinos to a point where they also imported demonstrators, who are believed to be the ones that broke the line and rushed to the pier to greet Col. Thompson, thereby irritating the Moro element to the point of violence.

From other sources it was learned that local Americans at the last minute circulated a subscription to provide a fund to purchase rice to feed the Moros brought for the demonstration.

Gov. Aseniero arrived with Col. Thompson, the latter at first retiring, but at the insistence of Gov. Gen. Wood returning to the circle.

The provincial governor denied that it had been more than a slight misunderstanding and insisted that, though the public peace had been disturbed, he had tried to follow the plan agreed upon. However, a band had been ordered to the pier to play at Col. Thompson's arrival, and the Moro sympathizers and Filipino followers started the whole crowd, which he was powerless to stop.

He said that he had kept the agreement that both groups should remain away from the pier. "I am sorry that I can not agree," said Gov. Gen. Wood, "just by a mere coincidence it was not a very serious conflict. It seems unimportant to some of you, but it was a very close call. The break demonstrated that the old animosity still exists and throws a doubt on every agreement made by Zamboanga, which depends on the people who failed to keep their word yesterday. It was a serious situation and saved only by the sound judgment of Maj. Fletcher and Col. Stevens. The whole thing shows the need of keeping down anything that savors of racial prejudice."

"These islands are the property of the United States from one end to the other and there is one government for all the people, regardless of the differences in blood and religion. We want your good conduct in the future to wipe the stain from the record."

Datu Mandi volunteered the statement that the army officers did not help in bringing the Moros from the island.

As Col. Thompson sailed on the Mindoro for the island of Basilan the Apo was preparing to start for Manila. The Wood party already has been to Jolo, the capital of Sulu, which Col. Thompson will visit tomorrow.

Gov. Gen. Wood constantly refuses to give interviews, but indicates that his return and the open air hearing was because the radio on his yacht Apo had picked up the press report of the miscarriage of justice for Col. Thompson to see both the Moros and Filipinos on equal terms. He said publicly that he had sought to show Col. Thompson how the two peoples get along.

This verified the charges of the attempted showing of Moro strength although they constitute less than one-third of the population of the provinces, some of whom favor independence.

Change in Government Of Spain Is Expected

London, Aug. 27 (By A. P.).—The correspondent of the Daily Mail at Hendaye, in France, near the Spanish frontier, says he learns from reliable Spanish sources that a change in the Spanish government is expected at any moment.

He gives as the reason for this the nomination as governors of the various provinces of members of the patriotic Union, of which the Spanish premier, Gen. Primo de Rivera, is leader.

Pope Passes Hours Daily Writing Book

Rome, Aug. 27 (By A. P.).—The Pope passes several hours daily writing a book, it is asserted in circles close to the Vatican. The nature of the book is not known. It is said the pontiff frequently has occasion to consult theological and historical works.

Sofia Conciliatory In Note on Raids

Sofia, Bulgaria, Aug. 27 (By A. P.).—The Bulgarian reply to the collective note of the Little Entente was delivered today. It is written in the most conciliatory terms and expresses the Sofia government's desire to safeguard its peace with its neighbors and smooth out existing difficulties. Bulgaria says she will not appeal to the League of Nations, but is ready to abide by the league's decision if that body is prepared to assume the role of the entire Bulgarian problem.

This reply was an answer to the collective note of Yugoslavia, Greece and Roumania, asking Bulgaria to suppress revolutionary organizations and to prevent border raiding.

NATIONS WOULD EXTEND SPAIN'S TANGIER POWER

Willing for More Active Share in Policing, but Balk at Mandate.

MAY DROP LEAGUE PLEA

Paris, Aug. 27 (By A. P.).—Spain can have a more active share in policing Tangier, but that is as far as France and England are willing to go to satisfy her recent demand, according to the most reliable information here. Both Great Britain and France are bound by the treaty of 1908 on all Mediterranean questions, including Tangier. That treaty definitely fixed their respective spheres of influence and has been the regulator of their policies ever since.

This agreement binds them to consult each other regarding any development in the Mediterranean that might upset established political conditions. They are now consulting and probably will return an answer to the Spanish memorandum within a very few days.

The object of the lively consultations of the two powers now going on is to find a way in which they can share the Spanish facility for cleaning out of Tangier the intriguers and arm smugglers which are causing so much trouble.

The entente powers appear confident that Spain's demand for a mandate for Tangier will be rejected by the League of Nations if presented. The diplomatic circles regard the move of bringing the question up at Geneva as a stratagem to provoke greater interest on the part of France and Great Britain in Spain's candidacy for a permanent seat on the council of the League of Nations.

But many also think it is impossible to link up the two questions as Spain purposes to do. Spain can bring the Tangier problem before the league only by application to the council. If the council at a meeting preliminary to the opening of the league assembly decides that the league has no jurisdiction, then the matter goes so far as the league is concerned. But diplomatic negotiations which become more active as the date for the league meeting approaches, are expected to clear up the situation before the council comes together. Withdrawal of the Spanish demand for intervention of the league is regarded as the most likely solution.

U. S. Airman Again To Fly Over Andes

Santiago, Chile, Aug. 27 (By A. P.).—The American aviator, Lieut. James H. Doolittle, intends to hop west Wednesday for a flight of about 650 miles over the Andes mountains to Buenos Aires, capital of Argentina.

Doolittle has just completed a flight from Santiago to La Paz, Bolivia, and return, a distance of about 2,400 miles. During this trip, both going and coming, Doolittle had to cross the Andes, which rise in the La Paz region to an altitude of about 15,000 feet.

Hall-Mills Prosecutor Asks Action Against Sleuth

Somerville, N. J., Aug. 27 (By A. P.).—The Hall-Mills murder investigation, relegated to the background by a legal battle which resulted in the remanding to jail without bail of two of the three defendants, was marked today by Special Prosecutor Alexander Simpson's request of Gov. Moore that he take action against the chief of Middlesex county detectives, for alleged obstruction of the inquiry.

Senator Simpson cited that David, although under oath during a preliminary examination, made no mention of a brooch pin found in 1922 near the scene of the slaying of the clerkman and his choir singer on September 14.

David today denied ever having possession of the calling card which the State asserted was found at the feet of Dr. Hall's body and which he declared bore the finger prints of Willie Stevens, who with his cousin, Henry Carpenter, and sister, Mrs. Edward Wheeler Hall, the rector's widow, are charged with the murders.

The State has affidavits, Senator Simpson said, which could trace the brooch from the first day it came into the possession of the prosecution concerning the original investigation.

CAMPAIGN INQUIRY IN NEW HAMPSHIRE TO BE INVESTIGATED

Governor Orders Attorney General to Act in Private Primary Quiz.

MOTIVE OF DETECTIVES QUESTIONED BY OFFICIAL

Asserts Sleuths Can Not Be Employed to Aid Candidates in His State.

Concord, N. H., Aug. 27 (By A. P.).—Gov. John G. Winant today ordered Attorney General Jerney Waldron to investigate the reported inquiry into New Hampshire primary campaign expenditure by nineteen detectives working for a national nonpartisan organization.

Suspicion that the inquiry was not the disinterested investigation it was at first represented to be was voiced by the governor in a statement to the Associated Press.

Gov. Winant said that William H. Barbour, reported head of the group of detectives operating for the William J. Burns detective agency, had called upon him and had told him that he was investigating prohibition conditions. The governor declared that if Barbour was in reality investigating campaign expenditures he had been deceived.

Visited by Sleuth.

In that event it would be fair to assume, the governor explained, that the investigation was really an undercover inquiry to aid individual candidates. He did not propose, he said, to tolerate such measures in New Hampshire.

"Some days ago," the governor said, "William H. Barbour called on me, presenting his card as manager of the community protection service of the William J. Burns International Detective Agency, Inc. He told me that his agency had been retained by an outside group of business men to make a survey of prohibition conditions in the State and that they were commencing in New Hampshire."

"After asking for my personal views on this subject, he wanted to know if I would suggest the names of other persons he should see in making a prohibition survey."

The governor said that he had learned that many prominent New Hampshire people had been asked for their views on prohibition and politics.

Won't Tolerate Move.

"If Mr. Barbour, of the Burns agency, is in fact in New Hampshire to investigate campaign expenditures, he lied to me when he told me that he was in New Hampshire to investigate prohibition. If Mr. Barbour, of the Burns agency, did not tell me the truth in regard to his real mission in New Hampshire, it is fair to assume that the investigation of primary expenditures is not a disinterested investigation, but conducted under cover to aid individual candidates."

Any candidate who would be a party to the wholesale employment of outside 'sleuths' paid by outside interests and working under the mask of a prohibition survey, shows no regard for the moral intelligence of the New Hampshire citizens. These methods were employed by Hall and Doherty in Washington. I do not propose that they shall be used in New Hampshire.

"I have ordered an immediate investigation of the facts by the attorney general's department."

G. O. P. Names Talbot In Virginia's Seventh

Special to The Washington Post.

Woodstock, Va., Aug. 27.—An adopted son of Virginia's will bear the Republican standard in the congressional fight in the Seventh district this fall. Walter R. Talbot, a former attorney of Akron, Ohio, who, for the last nine years has led a retired life at Winchester, today was nominated as the congressional candidate by the Seventh district Republican convention to oppose his fellow townsman, Judge Thomas W. Harrison, Democrat, incumbent, in the November election.

Dead Actress Linked Self With Valentino

London, Aug. 27 (By A. P.).—A coroner's jury inquest opened today to the death of Peggy Scott, actress, 27 years old, found dead in her London flat Wednesday. The police suspect that death was caused by poison, and it was said the woman had been intensely affected by the death of Rudolph Valentino. One of the letters she left read in the coroner's court said:

"I've had a lot of wonderful moments, how wonderful no one will ever know, but with his death, my last bit of courage has flown."

I feel I've been stretched for years like a piece of elastic. It was in 1922 that Rudolph helped me carry on. He told me a lot of the suffering that he had endured. Perhaps it was only a matter of time before the elastic had to snap. The inquest was adjourned until September 5.

Two Youths, 19, Die In Sing Sing Chair

Ossining, N. Y., Aug. 27 (By A. P.).—Two 19-year-old youths were electrocuted in Sing Sing prison last night, one on the verge of collapse, the other facing the chair with a jest.

John Gargula, convicted of killing a Manhattan grocery owner in a holdup, was plainly nervous as he went to the death chamber. Cosmo Brescia, sentenced in Brooklyn for killing his cousin, went to his death laughing. "I might as well die sitting up in a chair," he said, "as lying in bed."

Foot-Mouth Disease Source Held Found

Copenhagen, Denmark, Aug. 27 (By A. P.).—Dr. S. N. Vendel, a Danish doctor, believes he has found the cause of the foot and mouth disease, so destructive to cattle, in a fungus of the so-called Monilia family to which also belong the touchwood fungus and the tropical diarrhea fungus.

Vendel's theory is that this fungus acts as a primary agent in infections and creates favorable conditions for other bacteria to become malignant. Iodine is said to have proved effective against the action of the fungus in early stages of the disease. Dr. Vendel practiced several years in California.

Ring Politics Assailed In Montgomery Fight

Democratic County Organization Is Accused of Controlling Candidacies.

W. W. HODGES IS BOOMED

MONTGOMERY COUNTY BUREAU OF THE WASHINGTON POST.

ROCKVILLE, MD.

The recently organized anti-machine Democratic organization of Montgomery county, of which former State's Attorney Albert M. Bouie is president, Dr. Bates Etchison, vice president, J. Harry Gornley, secretary, and John Vinson Peter, treasurer, and which is backing certain candidates for Democratic nomination for office at the primary election on September 14 in opposition to those on the organization slate, has issued an address to Democratic voters in which it calls upon the members of the party to "liberate Montgomery county from ring politics."

"A large number of citizens who have investigated the political situation in Montgomery county," declares the appeal, "find that the political aspirations of public citizens are now in the hands of a few people. This ring is permitted through ring politics to make or undo, politically, any one it sees fit, and as public spirited citizens we feel that such a condition is a detriment to the welfare of this county."

"Every one should have an equal chance to further any political ambition he might entertain without regard to machine political ties. Believing this, we have associated ourselves together in an effort to liberate Montgomery county from ring politics and are asking the citizens of the county to study carefully the situation as it presents itself to them in the coming primary election with a view to casting their votes in a manner which will give to each person in the county a like chance, regardless of the influence of their individual families."

"The situation it presents itself today is one that a person, unassociated with ring politics, is given no opportunity to advance along political lines. This is not right and is a detriment to the Democratic party. This is not intended to reflect on any one personally, but is simply a protest against ring politics and the dictatorship of any man or party of men in power."

The president of the anti-machine organization is a son of the late State Senator William Veirs Bouie and the treasurer a son of the late Judge Edward C. Peter.

Gambling Restriction Restores Spanish City

San Sebastian, Spain, Aug. 27 (By A. P.).—Gen. Primo de Rivera, premier-dictator of Spain, has changed San Sebastian from an international gambling paradise into a modest, law-abiding city. The order of the dictator that gambling in Spain should cease has served to close the casino and drive all the "international sports" out. They have crossed over to Biarritz, noted resort on the Bay of Biscay, in France.

Thus San Sebastian has been turned back to the use of the Spaniards. It has become again a family place and normal life has been resumed. The beautiful beach daily is used by Spanish families, and children by thousands, are to be seen playing in the sands and wading in the waters. The wealthy foreigners who previously overran the place are gone.

Krim Sent to Exile, Despite His Illness

Fez, Morocco, Aug. 27 (By A. P.).—Abd-el-krim, sullen and downcast, left for Casablanca this afternoon on his way to exile on Reunion island in the Indian ocean. He traveled in a special car, accompanied by his brother, Mohammed, and Secretary Abd-el-essen and their wives and children, 24 persons in all. The luggage of the party filled two freight cars, which were sent to Casablanca yesterday. There the party will be embarked on a warship.

Anti-War Treaties Sought by Soviet

Moscow, Aug. 27 (By A. P.).—The Soviet government has instructed its representatives at Riga and Reval to begin immediately negotiations for mutual antiwar pacts with Latvia and Estonia, with a view to concluding treaties similar to the Russo-German and Russo-Ukrainian peace accords.

ARLINGTON BOARD AWARDS CONTRACTS FOR PAVING WORK

Horse-Drawn Tourists of the County Attract Attention in Rosslyn.

COMMITTEE IS NAMED FOR SEWER PROJECTS

Falls Church Fire Department Will Continue Its Fete Tonight.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE WASHINGTON POST.

CLARENDON, VA.

Contract was awarded by the board of supervisors yesterday to Loomis & Wetzel Construction Co. for the building of Clements avenue from Wilson boulevard to Washington district line, a distance of nine-tenths of a mile. It will be of concrete construction and 18 feet wide. The accepted bid was $28,635.

Bids also were opened and contract awarded to Morgan L. Johnston for the building of military road from Cherrydale to State road, route No. 251, a distance of 1.9 miles. It will be of concrete construction and 18 feet wide. The accepted bid was $40,966.28.

Both roads will be built under the supervision of C. L. Kinnier, engineer of the State highway commission.

Plans for the second annual convention and carnival of the Arlington-Fairfax Firemen's association, September 9, 10 and 11, at Falls Church, are being completed, according to General Chairman Walter U. Varney.

At a meeting of the executive committee last night in the Cherrydale Firemen's hall reports were received from all committees.

With the announcement that the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. will appeal from the order of the State corporation commission of July 3, forbidding a rate increase, E. L. Gibbs, president of the Fairfax Chamber of Commerce, has appointed George B. Roby to represent the chamber at the hearing on the petition, the date of which will be announced.

The advertising committee of the chamber has been reconstituted to include Thurlow White, chairman; M. E. Church, of Falls Church; A. H. Buell, of Herndon, and Thomas R. Keith, of Fairfax.

Fines totaling $64.50 were placed against William Jones, R. C. Sunday, Mickey Donaldson and Jonah Shackerford, on charge of being under the influence of liquor, by Judge Harry R. Thomas. Driving without a permit cost Vernon Carter $14.25.

Pleading guilty to stealing an automobile, Warren Brown, 16 years old, was fined $10 and sentenced to 30 days in jail. The jail sentence was suspended in consideration of the boy's parents. The judge warned the boy that should he appear in court again he would have the 30 days to serve.

Much interest was created in Rosslyn yesterday when two horse-drawn wagons stopped and the occupants proceeded to prepare lunch. Lunch was served in the large wagon, while in the smaller one a pony was enjoying his noonday meal.

Investigation showed that Mr. and Mrs. Cleve La Rue and 5-year-old son, Corliss, were making a tour of the United States. Arriving at Rosslyn, Mr. La Rue stated he had traveled through 26 States, covering 14,177 miles.

The wagons were well equipped for summer and winter. When asked why he chose horses, Mr. La Rue, who came from Texas, replied: "It may be a slow means of travel, but more sure than with an automobile. We met many cars in the mud, which we pull out, but our horses continue on."

"During the entire trip, which started five years ago, our only mishap has been the loss of two horses, which simply gave out."

Suit for divorce was filed in the office of the clerk of the court yesterday by Carrie Marie T. Wannall against Bernard Layton Wannall.

Charged with illegal possession and transportation of liquor, Howard M. Shelton, of 205 C street, northward, Washington, and Jonah Shackerford, of Stafford county, Va., were held for the action of the grand jury in $1,000 bond each by Judge Thomas yesterday.

Shelton pleaded guilty to the charge, while Shackerford said he had no knowledge of seven gallons of alleged corn liquor being in the car and pleaded not guilty. Testimony was offered that Shelton was Shackerford's son-in-law.

A marriage license was issued yesterday to Joseph D. Eldred, of 3403 Wheeler road southeast, Washington, and Verve Laure Cleveland, of Ballston.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Leo Sanders of Braddock Heights, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Jane Holstein, to Howard Warfield Leeke, of Norfolk, Va. The wedding will take place during the early winter.

The Willing Workers class of the Methodist Episcopal church South of Potomac, will conduct a bake sale today in the building adjoining Hamlet's drug store, on Mount Vernon avenue.

The Builders and Business Men's Bible class of the Cherrydale Baptist church will hold a picnic today at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. G. Bisle, near McLan, Va.

Both morning and evening services at the Clarendon Methodist church tomorrow will be conducted by the pastor, the Rev. George Fielding. At the 11 o'clock service his text will be "Light." In the evening service will be combined with that of the Epworth league, at which time the pastor will speak on "Jesus, the Good Shepherd."

With Arlington county's water system now assured, the Greater Arlington county committee at a meeting last night in the courthouse endorsed the motion of J. Cloyd Byars for the appointment of a subcommittee to study and submit recommendations at the next meeting for the installation of a modern sewer system in the county.

Following considerable discussion, Chairman E. L. Kirkpatrick, announced the appointment of the following committee: J. Cloyd Byars, chairman; Dr. Edward Mc-

TEXAS VOTES TODAY ON MRS. FERGUSON, SEEKING NEW TERM

Governor and Attorney General Close Bitter Campaign for Nomination.

WOMAN HOLDS KLAN BACKING CONTENDER

Threat to Throw General Election to G. O. P. Made by Former Chief.

Dallas, Texas, Aug. 27 (By A. P.). Texas voters will render a straight out decision tomorrow in the political controversy between the Ferguson and Attorney General Dan Moody. The Democratic gubernatorial nomination, equivalent in Texas to election, will go to the winner.

The last words in the run-off primary campaign were spoken tonight, with both Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson, candidate for renomination, and Moody urging that the more than 800,000 persons who cast ballots in the elimination primary July 24 go to the polls again tomorrow.

Moody led the woman governor by more than 120,000 votes in the first primary, but lacked about 1,700 votes of the required majority over all candidates. Lynch Davidson, runner-up in the elimination race, has asked that the 100,000 voters who supported him, cast their ballots for Moody tomorrow.

Ku Klux Klan an Issue.

Gov. Ferguson made but one address in the run-off campaign. She rested her case with the issuance of a statement. Tonight her husband and adviser, former Gov. James E. Ferguson, whom Moody charges is now the real governor of the State, made his last address of the campaign at Groesbeck. Moody ended his campaign with an address at Austin. Each predicted victory.

The Fergusons stressed the Ku Klux Klan issue and Ferguson made a direct appeal for the Catholic and Jewish vote. The governor and her husband explained that the real reason she did not withdraw from the run-off primary and resign immediately after the first primary as she said she would in a challenge to Moody to resign his office under certain conditions, was that Moody did not accept the challenge directly.

Developments at and immediately succeeding the first primary caused her to believe if Moody were given an unopposed field it would be a Ku Klux Klan victory, Mrs. Ferguson declared.

Moody, on the other hand, declared the Klan has not been an issue since Gov. Ferguson was elected two years ago, and the real issue was "Fergusonism" and whether the people wished the Fergusons to continue in power.

Underneath the effort by Ferguson to get votes for his wife has been an intimation of possible court action to keep Moody's name off the general election ballot if Moody is successful tomorrow. Ferguson has charged there were election frauds in the first primary which he intends to have investigated, and has declared that the Republicans may, if they wish, keep Moody's name off the general election ballot, and thus place Col. H. H. Haines, the Republican nominee for governor, in the executive office.

There are 252 counties in the State and 251 of them were reported to the Texas election bureau today as having prepared to open voting booths. In past run-off primaries some counties have not participated because of lack of interest.

Hearing on Ring Theft.

Preliminary hearing will be held today before Judge Macdonald in the case of William A. Shubert, who is charged with the larceny of a diamond ring valued at $600 and a gold ring valued at $5. The rings were taken from Mrs. Eleanor Moore, of Forest Glen, Md. Shubert appeared in court yesterday and pleaded not guilty to the charge. Bond was fixed at $1,000.

SHEFFIELD WILL REPORT TO COOLIDGE ON MEXICO

President Holds Diplomat's Views on Policies Will Have Much Weight.

SOON TO BE CAMP GUEST

Paul Smiths, N. Y., Aug. 27 (By A. P.).—Any recommendations as to policies with reference to Mexico that James R. Sheffield, American Ambassador to Mexico City, may make to President Coolidge, it was said today at the summer White House, will have great weight with the chief executive.

Discussing the proposed visit of the Ambassador to White Pine camp, officials said Mr. Coolidge would like to see him and talk about the Mexican situation and obtain his first-hand views about conditions in the southern republic.

No date has been set for the visit as yet, but it will probably be soon. The Ambassador, who has come to this country for a vacation, was received by Secretary Kellogg of the State Department Wednesday and is understood to be planning a visit to Atlantic City before coming here.

In the opinion of the President, Mr. Sheffield is an able man and a trained lawyer who has made an excellent Ambassador and has handled a difficult situation in Mexico with great skill and discretion. His accepting the post is viewed by Mr. Coolidge as a large sacrifice on his part from the standpoint of his legal work, and the President feels he has performed a distinct public service in making the sacrifice.

While a year or more ago Mr. Sheffield was in poor health and recovering from an operation, it is understood by Mr. Coolidge that he has now completely recovered.

That Mr. Sheffield is in agreement with the administration on its Mexican policy has been emphasized by Secretary Kellogg both here and in Washington. William P. Jackson, former United States senator, and present Republican national committeeman for Maryland, was a luncheon guest with Mrs. Jackson, of the President and Mrs. Coolidge today, but politics was said not to have been mentioned. It was pointed out that Mr. and Mrs. Jackson have been spending the summer at Loon lake and were invited as friends in this vicinity.

Others who arrived during the day at White Pine camp were Mr. and Mrs. William F. Whiting, of Holyoke, Mass., who remained as house guests. Mr. Whiting is a paper manufacturer and a long-time friend of Mr. Coolidge.

UNABLE TO COMPEL CORPORATION FACTS

tal to interstate commerce, the President pointed out, and when it comes to securities the courts have decided that their issuance is not an act of interstate commerce.

For these reasons the President inclines to the belief that the only adequate remedy lies with the States and that in order to obtain full corporation publicity, stockholders must have recourse to State legislation exacting complete disclosure of details.

Professor Ripley holds that the Federal Trade Commission has always possessed the power to exact adequate financial statements from corporations, but has neglected to exercise its authority. Its power to require such information has been challenged by certain steel and coal companies and is to be determined by the Supreme Court in pending suits.

$15,000 Damage Suit Withdrawn.

Dr. Solomon F. Acree, 808 I street northwest, who sued H. W. Bennett and Francis J. LaMotte for $15,000 damages for alleged breach of contract, dismissed his action yesterday in circuit court. The suit was based on the alleged failure of the defendants to carry out an agreement to organize a corporation to manufacture chemicals from cellulosic materials using the plaintiff's patents.

the present time. Twenty persons yesterday voted in favor of having the Center market district unchanged in its present location. Several others voted in favor of some central location. These latter ballots could not be counted for any one of the principal sites under public discussion, inasmuch as they were not marked specifically.

Misunderstanding Exists.

Civic and business leaders interested in the moving of a part of the Center market district have received expressions from several persons indicating a lack of a clear understanding of the questions at issue, they said.

So that there may be no misunderstanding of the questions at issue, The Post gives again a summary:

The farmers' market, which is one of the three major divisions of the Center market district, must and shall be moved to make room for the new building for the internal revenue building.

Removal of the farmers' market was the first decision reached by the park and planning commission, which instructed its coordinating committee to study the question of removal and selection of a new site for the farmers' market.

Study of the question developed not only a well-founded sentiment against isolating the farmers' market, but also many economic reasons which bound the farmers' market to the wholesale and commission food dealers. At its last meeting the park and planning commission sent back the report of its coordinating committee on removal of the farmers' market, and instructed that committee to draft another report dealing with removal of both the farmers' market and wholesale and commission house rows. The coordinating committee now is engaged in a further study of the question.

Must Plan for Future.

This last decision of the park and planning commission left only the Center market itself out of its market moving plan. There are many persons who declare that Center market proper will not be moved for years. But, it is pointed out by others, that the market building must give way eventually to permit carrying out of plans for development of the Mall. They urge that the three divisions are so interwoven they should be considered as a whole.

Whether Center market proper is moved now or two years from now or after that date, provision should be made in any plan for removal of the farmers and the wholesale and commission food dealers for joining the three divisions again, they declare.

But whatever is done about Center market proper in the immediate future, decision already has been made to move the other two divisions of the market district, and the question to be answered is, Where shall they be placed?

Another Operation For Senator Fletcher

(By Associated Press.)

Senator Fletcher of Florida is expected to undergo a second operation within a few days at Battle Creek, Mich., his secretary, W. L. Hill, said yesterday.

Recently the senator went through a minor operation, from which he is recovering. Although the next one will be a major operation for an ailment of the bladder, his physician sees no occasion for alarm, as his general condition is considered good. Senator Fletcher went to Battle Creek several weeks ago for a rest and the necessity for the operation developed after his arrival.

Air Station Changes Announced.

An improvement program for the Naval air station at Anacostia was announced at the Navy Department yesterday. Rolling steel doors will be installed at the water front ends of seaplane hangars and a steel frame building, about 100 feet square, will be erected to replace wooden storage buildings.

DEARTH OF ARCHITECTS DELAYS FEDERAL PLANS

$165,000,000 Program Held Up Because Civil Service Places Can Not Be Filled.

17 MEN FOR 63 POSITIONS

"Work on the $165,000,000 government public buildings program authorized at the last session of Congress, is being delayed because the government is having difficulty in finding architects, especially in the lower grades," William C. Deming, president of the United States civil service commission, said yesterday.

The commission recently issued an urgent call for assistant architects to fill a large number of vacancies in the office of the supervising architect of the Treasury Department. Only 17 of 63 vacancies for assistant architects, chief architectural, senior and junior architectural draftsmen, have been filled.

A revival in building is the reason for the shortage.

"Great hotels, apartment houses and homes are being erected," said Mr. Deming, just returned from a two months' trip through the middle and far West. "There has never been such an era of home building and home buying as exists now and this applies to small cities as well as large ones. Home building is intensified by the modern system of building and selling homes on the installment plan and architects are busy at high wages."

To Compete in Air Races.

Washington naval aviators, who will compete in the National air races at the Sesqui-centennial exposition, September 4 to 11, are the following: Lieuts. E. W. Litch, W. G. Tomlinson, G. T. Owens, J. D. Barner, U. S. N., and W. L. McKitterick, U. S. M. C., all of the Anacostia naval air station.

Your Last Chance to Vote on the New Market Site

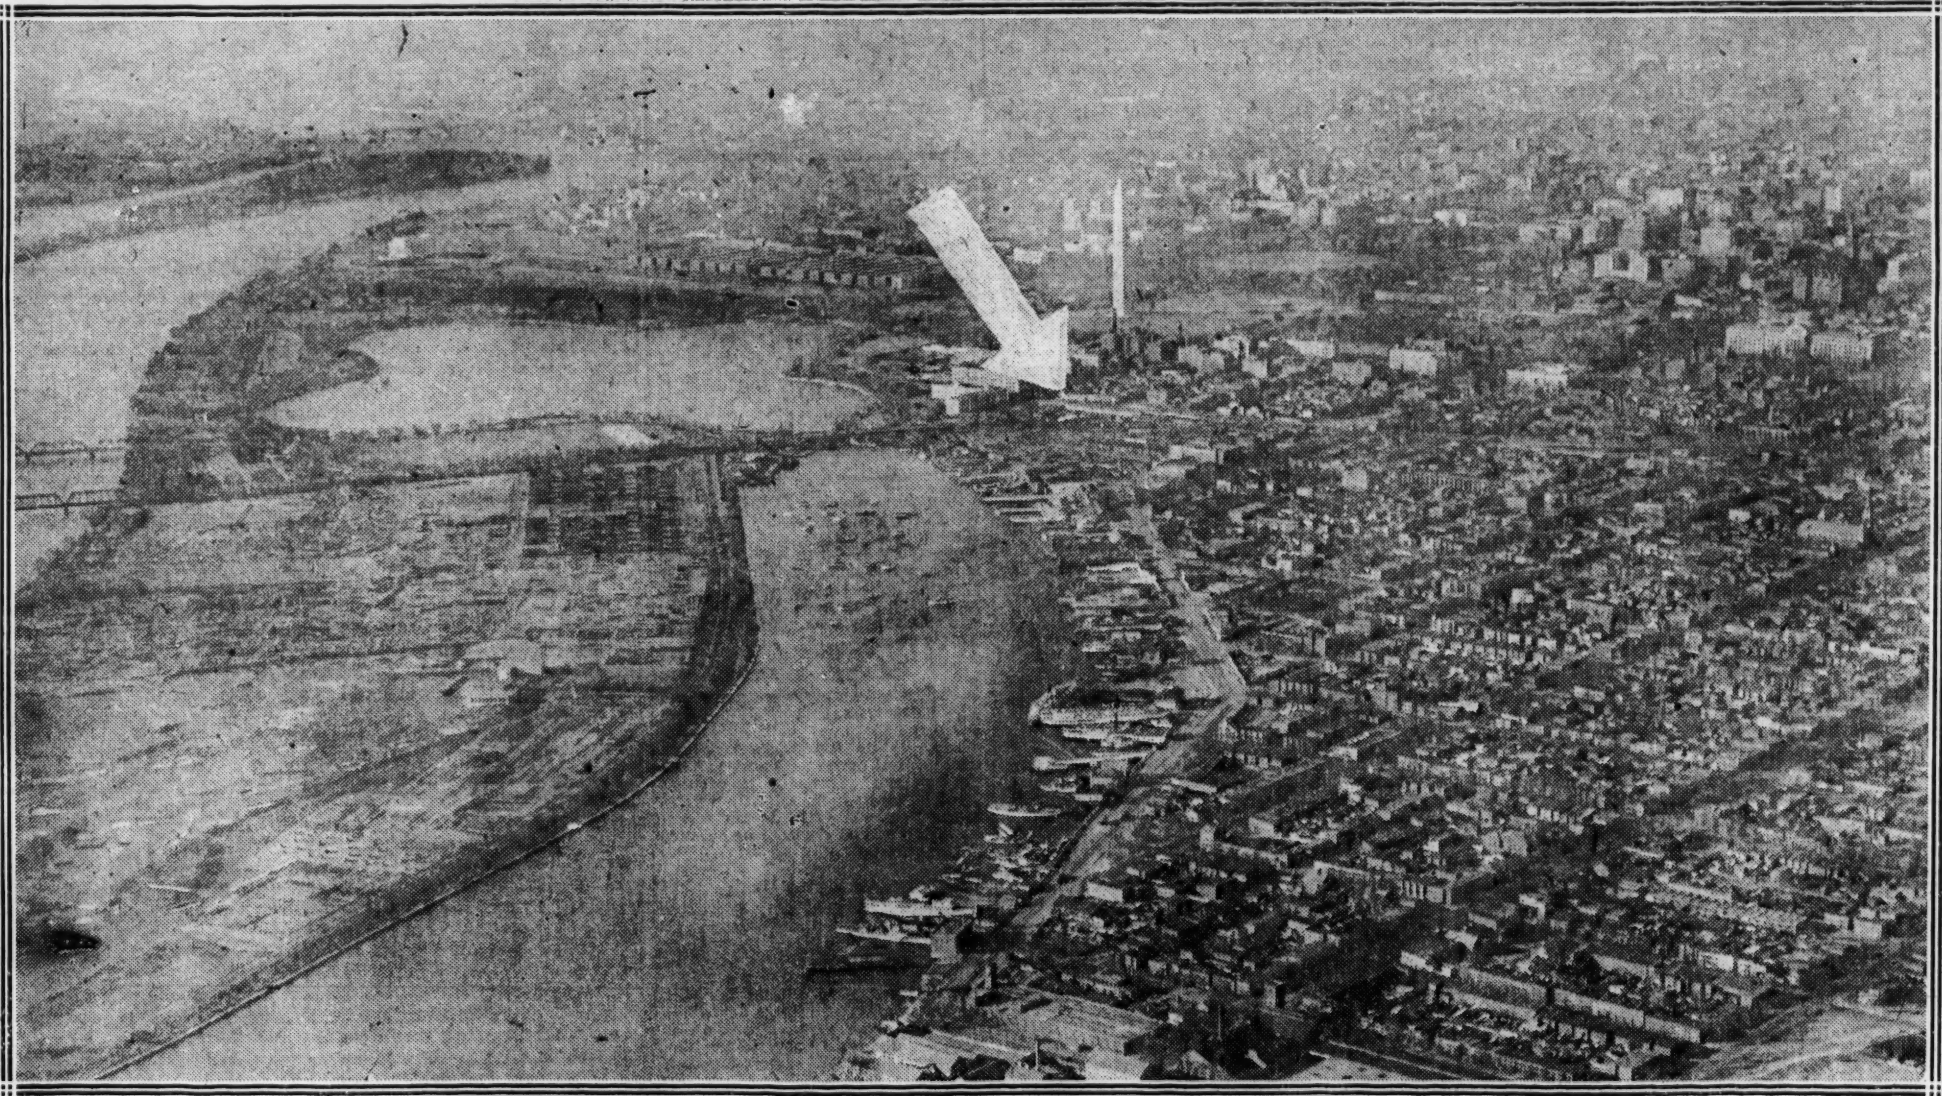

The WATER FRONT AREA is only a few blocks from the present Market District. The public and the trade are accustomed to come to South Washington for market supplies.

The Municipal Fish Market does a yearly business there amounting to over $2,000,000 gross sales in fish and other sea foods.

All steamboat wharves for the receipt of perishable freight by river transportation are located nearby.

The Water Front offers wide streets and ample parking space which can not be found in the more congested center of the city, and there are adequate street car facilities to the foot of Four and a half Street, Seventh Street, Eleventh Street and Fourteenth Street.

There are through traffic arteries to the Water Front Section at 14th Street, 12th Street, 7th Street, 6th Street, 4½ Street, and 3rd Street, which are available for heavy traffic and must be kept open always for the distribution of freight from the numerous railroad yards and city steamboat wharves.

Water Front From the Air. Arrow Shows Proposed Market Site.

Close to the consuming public, a modern terminal for perishable freight with direct railroad switching connections is under construction in the area from Water Street to the railroad lines between 12th Street and 14th Street Southwest.

All perishable freight shipped to Washington from the South converges at the Potomac Yard, four miles south of the Water Street Terminal.

A modern cold storage plant and warehouse covering an entire city block is fully equipped and in operation at 12th and E Streets Southwest.

Congress has recently authorized the laying of conduits across 12th Street to carry refrigeration by pipe line to the Water Street Terminal Area for the service of all dealers in perishable food products who locate there.

Such reasons have moved the leading Cities of the world to locate their markets at their water fronts.

In its Ninth Annual Report, which was submitted to Congress with the approval of the President, the National Commission of Fine Arts made the following recommendation:

"WHOLESALE TERMINAL, DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.—The Commission was asked for advice with regard to the establishment in the District of a wholesale terminal for merchants who deal in fruits and general market supplies, so as to simplify the process of bringing products from the producer to the consumer. Of several sites considered, the National Fruit Growers' Association considered a site opposite the Bureau of Engraving and Printing preferable, in view of convenient railroad and steamboat facilities. The Commission considered the site suitable, provided Congress shall so authorize."

The question is
— Shall We Reduce the High Cost of Living
by placing the whole Market District at the Water Front, where there are adequate railroad facilities, cheap water transportation and cheap land?

Or Shall We Increase the High Cost of Living by placing the whole Market District uptown, where there are no freight transportation facilities (requiring heavy drayage, rehandling and spoilage costs) and where land is most expensive?

That is the squarely cut issue—What are YOU going to do about it?
Here is an opportunity for good citizens of Washington to express their views regarding this important problem affecting the welfare of every household in the City.

In its Annual Report recently submitted to the Commissioners, the District Wharf Committee said:

"Attention is called to the availability of the water front on the Washington channel, between the fish market and Fourteenth street, as a site for a new farmers' produce market."

"Establishment of a farmers' produce market on the water front should tend to encourage a resumption of water traffic in vegetables, fruits and other commodities from the rich tide-water counties of Maryland and Virginia. Moreover, railroad transportation is available across the street. Because of the municipal fish market on the water front it would appear that a farmers' produce market adjoining on the west would be a logical extension of market facilities."

"There has been a gradual change in the character of southwest Washington in the last ten or fifteen years, from residential to commercial and industrial, so that a farmers' market at this location would not appear to be in the least objectionable."

"About 70 squares in this section of the city have been zoned for commercial or industrial use and there appears to be a tendency to establish large warehouses, refrigerating plants and other structures for shortage of meats and other foodstuffs."

LOSS OF COMMANDER RODGERS.

The country is shocked by the death of Commander John N. Rodgers, who won world-wide fame last year by his heroism in the seaplane flight to Hawaii. An experienced flier, Commander Rodgers appears to have been a victim of one of the accidents in aviation which skill and experience have not yet been able to prevent.

Commander Rodgers' death seems to have been the result of shock as well as injury. He was conscious when rescuers reached him and cut the straps that confined him.

"Many a good man must fall" before the skies can be made safe for mankind. Every pilot is a potential martyr in the struggle between man and nature. Having taken to wings, man will not be satisfied until he has learned to fly safely at any time anywhere in the world. Flying has already become a necessity in war, and soon it will be a necessity in peace. Air mail is already established, and air express is developing. While passenger flight is more common abroad than in this country, the incessant use of the air by trained fliers throughout the United States is visible evidence of the early installation of passenger air services.

The death of Commander Rodgers is deeply deplored, not only on account of the loss of a heroic aviator, but because he was a gifted pioneer in aviation and was in a position to render extremely valuable service to the country and to science. If he were alive he would say to his brother fliers: "Let my death be the signal for redoubled efforts to improve the art of flying. Study the art; make every accident the basis of discoveries which will prevent further accidents of the same kind."

"STABILIZING" PRICES.

Mr. Meredith, former Secretary of Agriculture, says that the farmers do not want more credit or debt, but stabilization of their assets; that is, stabilization of prices of farm crops and farm property.

The stabilization of prices was undertaken during the war. Neither sellers nor purchasers were satisfied. The minimum price of wheat was fixed. The growers of wheat complained that this process deprived them of higher prices and larger profits. The price of sugar was fixed and producers complained of governmental interference, while consumers complained that the fixed price was too high. There is no method or machinery whereby prices of farm products or property or any other commodities can be "stabilized" or kept free from the operation of the law of supply and demand. The very authority that "stabilizes" is subject to this law.

If some scheme is devised to stabilize farm products, it should be applied to all other commodities also. In this event the public in the end would pay for all variations from the stabilized line, as affected by supply and demand. No act of Congress, no government, no Mussolini can "stabilize" that which is constantly changing, namely, relative value.

NERVE THAT WON OUT.

With fractured jawbone and a broken leg Lieut. Cyrus K. Bettis, of the army air service, is resting under the care of the surgeons at Walter Reed hospital today. In spite of the severity of his injuries there is an excellent chance that the intrepid flier may recover and resume his duties.

While flying above the mountains in Pennsylvania from Philadelphia to Selfridge field, Michigan, last Monday, Lieut. Bettis lost his bearings in a heavy fog and his plane crashed into the side of a mountain. For more than 43 hours he was lost in the wilds. Searching parties in other planes hunted in vain for the missing man throughout two days following the crash. In spite of the agony which he suffered the gallant officer started to crawl and hop through the heavy timber and underbrush which covered the mountainside. He frequently saw the searching planes flying above his head, but was unable to attract their attention. Realizing that his only chance of life depended upon reaching the open, he persisted in his agonizing journey and at last made the open road, where he was shortly afterward found by some of the workers on the highway.

Hurrying the wounded man to the hospital in Center county, the rescuers notified the authorities, and Capt. Reinartz, the surgeon at Bolling field, in Washington, immediately began to convert one of the big Douglas transport planes into an air ambulance. Rushing to Pennsylvania, the plane picked up the surgeon and waited for him to Bolling field in a two-hour run. Thence he was transferred to the hospital.

Bettis never lost his nerve from the moment he recovered consciousness. He is a type of the navigators of the air who are making history. His progress toward complete recovery will be watched with keen interest by his comrades and the public alike. It is the Bettis type that puts America in the front rank on the earth, on the sea, and in the air above the earth.

Incidentally the air service of the army has demonstrated the possibilities of an aerial ambulance corps by its prompt and successful handling of this emergency.

A RUBBER MARE'S NEST.

The New York World is convinced that an Imperialistic scheme is brewing in Congress and among rubber magnates, having for its purpose the exploitation of Filipino labor for rubber production. The bill introduced by Representative Bacon, of New York, is regarded by the World as a part of this scheme. The bill proposes to separate the Moro districts of the Philippines from the general government at Manila and give them a government of their own, under direct control of Washington. The Moro districts are capable of producing rubber, and under a separate government it is presumed that laws might be passed which would facilitate rubber cultivation on a large scale. It is practically impossible to accomplish this end under the Manila government, as the land laws prevent the acquisition of sufficiently large tracts.

The World intimates that Mr. Bacon's bill, under the pretense of affording religious liberty to the non-Christian Moros, is in reality a plan for peonizing the Moros by rubber exploitation, and that Col. Carmi Thompson's mission to the Philippines is in furtherance of this plan.

It is a pretty mare's nest, as it stands. But it presupposes a set of facts which remain to be proved. The World's suspicions would have little merit if it should happen that President Coolidge has no part in the plot and would not countenance it. The "exposure" would mean little, moreover, if Col. Thompson should happen to disagree with Representative Bacon on the question of a separate government for the Moros. Another disconcerting factor might be the refusal of rubber magnates to select any part of the Philippine archipelago for rubber cultivation. And finally, the plot would disappear into thin air if Congress should take it into its head to make it impossible for rubber magnates or anybody else to enslave or peonize the natives of the Philippines.

Possibly there are rubber magnates who would be glad to take advantage of slave labor in the Philippines; but even so, they should be credited with having better sense than to risk money in a scheme which could only succeed with the criminal connivance of the President of the United States, Congress, and the local governments of the Philippines.

FOREIGN STEEL COMBINES.

It is reported that the foreign steel combine, in which French, Belgian and German steel manufacturers are interested, proposes to control the products in those countries and thus control the price, advancing it to a point where the profits will be large enough to permit of fixing extraordinarily low prices for export.

Since the United States is the best and richest market in the world, it is presumed that the foreign steel combine will ship large quantities of steel to the United States, pay the duty, and undersell American steel products. The foreign combine already is selling steel rails here at a price considerably below the American cost of manufacture.

This situation is giving many American steel manufacturers much concern. While the effect has been felt only in spots, if the plan is made general the question of a higher tariff to protect the American steel industry will be thrust forward.

It should be borne in mind that the United States Steel Corporation is not the only concern in this country manufacturing steel products. There are many more, of considerable proportions, located in the middle West, the South and the far West. These concerns are entitled to the same protection that is given to all other steel manufacturers.

WHO WILL WIN.

Queen Marie of Roumania has made up her mind to visit the United States. It was announced recently that the "most beautiful queen in Europe" had declined to consider many private entertainments which were contemplated in her honor and that she had determined to travel only as a royal personage, to be received officially as becomes one of the blood royal. But just as all arrangements for the royal pilgrimage were about to be perfected comes the word by cable that Premier Averescu has been looking into the finances of the kingdom and has come to the conclusion that, as the "leu," which is the unit of the currency of Roumania, is worth only one-fortieth of its face in United States currency, it is not a good time for his queen to be trotting around the world on a sightseeing trip.

In the meantime King Ferdinand is in France "taking the cure," and he has not been heard from directly as to the opposition of the premier. He is due at Bucharest shortly, and it is expected that his return will be followed by a final decision as to the plans of his consort.

Queen Marie is of English blood. She is the granddaughter of the late Queen Victoria. In the country of her ancestors they have a saying that "when a woman will, she will, you may depend on it, and when she won't, she won't, and that's the end of it."

Reasoning from this hypothesis, it should not be very difficult to guess the outcome of the contest of wits between Queen Marie and Premier Averescu.

DESPOILING YELLOWSTONE PARK.

In spite of the fact that the last session of Congress failed to authorize the destruction of one of the most attractive portions of the Yellowstone National park in the interest of a number of speculative philanthropists of Idaho, those gentlemen have not abandoned their efforts.

On the invitation of Senator Gooding and Representative Smith a congressional delegation has junketed out to Idaho to make an examination of the situation. They have been shown all the benefits which this addition to the irrigation works of the region will bring to Idaho, and one of the Idaho papers asserts that "an unofficial canvass of the membership leads to the belief that a favorable report will be made."

As previously pointed out in The Post, the proposal upon which the congressional committee is asked to make a favorable recommendation contemplates the mutilation of the park by transferring to the State a body of lands, rivers and cascades that is now free from commercial exploitation. It is then proposed to grant the right to a corporation to dam Fall river and thereby create a reservoir for the storage of water to be sold by the company for irrigation purposes.

The mere fact that the junketing party now in Idaho may make a favorable report on the proposition to ruin one of the most beautiful portions of the Yellowstone does not mean that the project will receive the indorsement of Congress. On the contrary, the opponents of the grab are ready to renew the fight in committee and on the floor of the Senate as well as in the House. Among them are a number of civic organizations intent upon preserving for the enjoyment of all the people those natural beauties which have been rescued from the ax of the woodsman and the concrete mixer of the dam builder and which are reserved as breathing places for future generations, as well as for the American people of today.

The Department of the Interior has given no intimation of its willingness to abandon its opposition to the plan to grab the cascades of the Yellowstone.

SHIPS FOR SALE.

The United States Shipping Board offers to sell to the highest bidders its crack ships in the United States Line and the American Merchant Line—the former operating the Leviathan, the George Washington, the Republic, the President Harrison and the President Roosevelt.

It is announced that bids will be received until November 8, that only bids from Americans will be received, and that 25 per cent of the price accepted must be paid down. Operation of the present routes must be guaranteed by the purchasers for a certain period.

This is in accordance with the policy laid down by Congress in the act of 1920, which declares that government ships must be sold to private parties as soon as possible.

Soon all the ships owned by the government will be either disposed of as junk or sold to private parties for private operation. When this event takes place it will be interesting to know how the books stand, beginning with 1917 and ending with 1926 or 1927. Approximately $3,500,000,000 has been spent by the government in shipbuilding. The annual loss in operation has ranged from $150,000,000 to $300,000,000. Just what the ships have brought and will finally bring is problematical; but it is safe to say that the net loss to the government will be many millions, if not billions.

In the meantime the Shipping Board is trying to find out what is the best course to pursue in order to revive the American merchant marine.

FOREIGN FINANCING.

Revised figures show that during the first six months of this year foreign financing in this country totaled $605,238,000, as compared with $593,406,000 in the corresponding six months of 1925. Of this total in 1926, $553,198,000 was in foreign bonds and $22,000,000 in foreign stocks. Capital for refunding totaled $46,384,000, while $558,904,000 represented new capital invested.

During this period there were some 400 different borrowers, of which 9 were governments, 24 states or provinces, 7 cities, and 60 corporations. Loans to governments, states and cities amounted to $330,365,000, or 54.6 of the total, while loans to corporations amounted to $274,923,000, or 45.4 of the total.

Europe borrowed $192,548,000, Canada borrowed $237,568,000 and Latin America borrowed $175,172,000. It remains to be seen how many more billions of American private capital can be loaned to foreign governments, states, cities and corporations, without crippling the capital fund needed for domestic development. Furthermore, these large investments may have a surprising effect upon America's foreign policy, for "where your treasure is, there will your heart be also."

The long-feared Japanese invasion has begun. Ten scouts of the bureau of entomology, after a search covering two weeks, have located the advance guard of the invaders. He is a lone beetle from Japan, and was evidently scouting out the lay of the road toward the experiment station across the Potomac. The first appropriation made by Congress for the elimination of the gypsy moth was only $50,000, and that pest is not half as dangerous as the Japanese beetle. This information is for the exclusive use of the director of the budget.

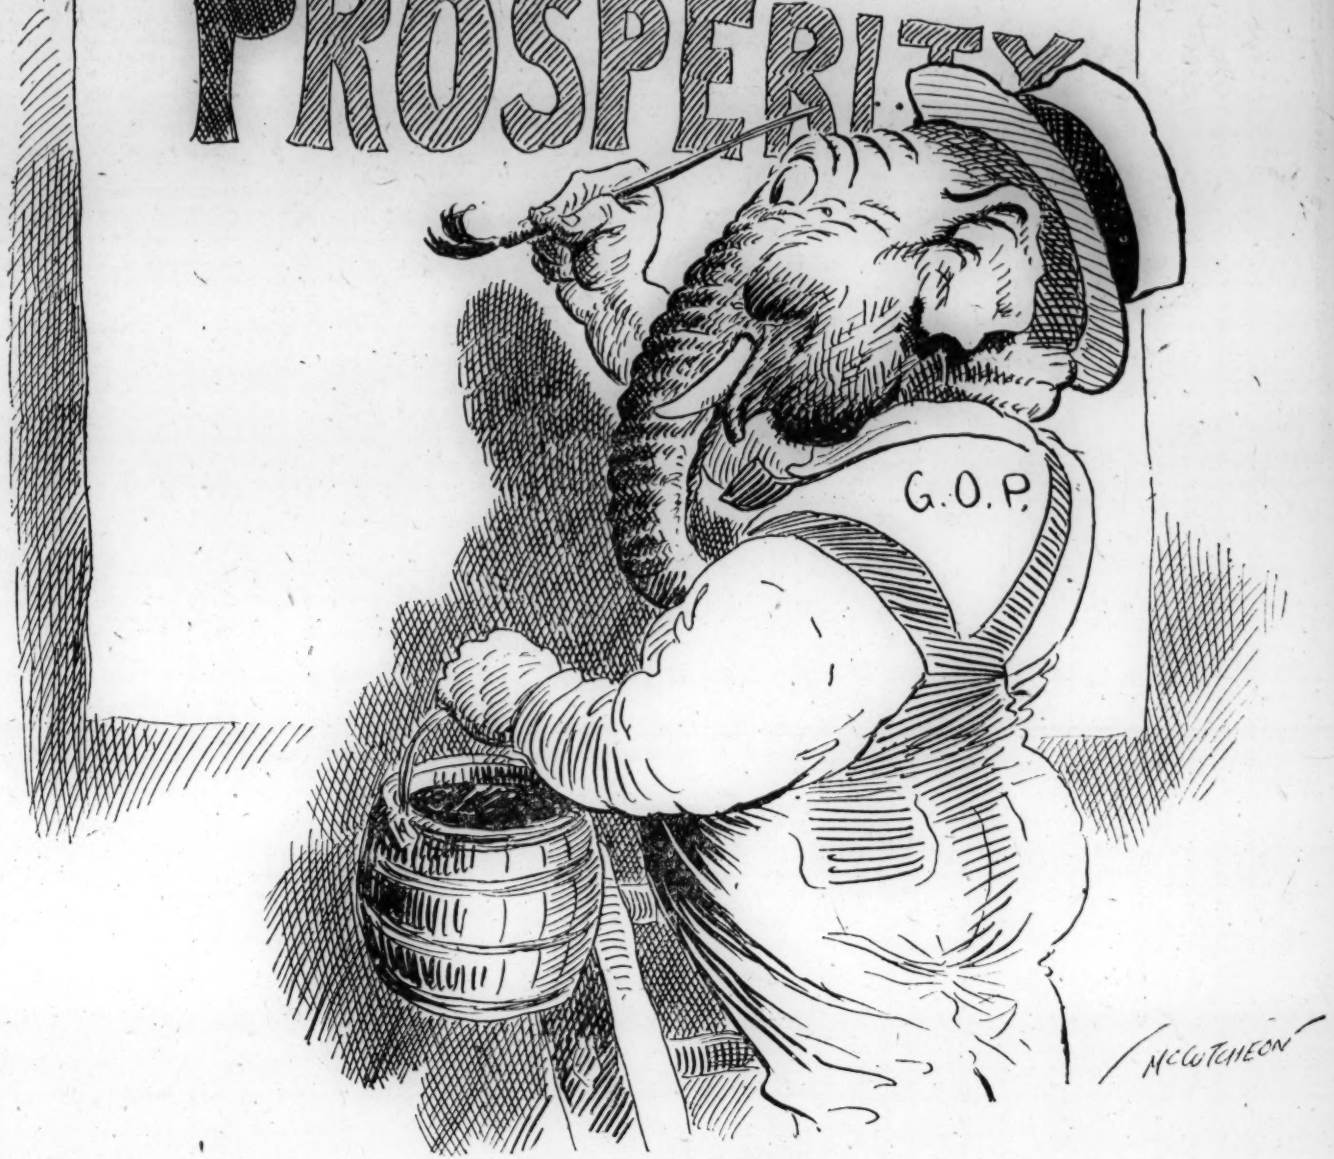

Gertrude Ederle was uproariously welcomed in New York yesterday. Mayor Walker received her at the City Hall after the channel champion had negotiated the stormy channel of Broadway. There were movie operators galore, lottery-seekers, lawyers, police, and mob fanatics who had just reveled in the scramble to see the body of Rudolph Valentino. A glorious time was had by all and now New York is ready to devour another lion or lioness.

The Worst Story I Heard Today—By Will Rogers

The Worst Joke I heard today was told to me by Herbert Wilcox. He is the best Moving Picture Director in England and is turning out some very fine Pictures. He is really not an Englishman but an Irishman, and is quite a keen little bird. England and Ireland are great racing places. Everybody bets on the horses and everybody is interested in races. A young fellow down in Dublin that kind of made a living following the horses decided to have his mother come down and see the town and take her to the races, so he wrote her. At the finish of the letter he said, "Bring something to put on the horses." Well, the Mother came and they went out to the races and he noticed she had a parcel she was carrying, and he asked her what it was. She said, "Well, it's an old, old, old blanket we had in the house. It's the best I could find to put on the horses. I hope it's not too shabby and you won't be ashamed of it."

The G. O. P. Slogan.

PRESS COMMENT.

Trying It on the Dog.

Boston Transcript: Lady Astor prepares for the next session of parliament by addressing the villagers at Islesboro, Me.

No Such Word As Fail.

Buffalo Courier and Express: If the English persist in casting aspersions at Gertrude Ederle's channel swim, Gert might silence her critics by swimming up Niagara Falls without the aid of accompanying tugs.

Same Thing Here.

Brooklyn Eagle: Despite the intellectual influence of Harvard and Boston university and Amherst, more than half the candidates for admission to the Massachusetts bar are flunked. Out of 742 only 343 passed the examinations. Vocational education has many, many disadvantages.

Will They Try It?

Capper's Weekly: If their laws permit it, the people of Illinois and Pennsylvania are justified in demanding another primary where nominations may be made unaided by money. Such a proceeding would have a tremendously wholesome effect. It would be applauded from one end of these United States to the other.

Mellon vs. Madden.

Philadelphia Ledger: Secretary Mellon believes the government's first duty is to pay off its Liberty bonds. He has been wiping out 100-cent dollar obligations with 67-cent dollars. He has been thinking of the future and cutting down the nation's fixed charges. Congress is thinking about appropriations. The Secretary's position is sounder than that of Mr. Madden.

Why Dempsey Mourns.

N. Y. Sun: Mr. Dempsey of the waxen nose and Mr. Tunney of the vaulting ambition are scheduled to divert a multitude at the Sesqui-centennial show in Philadelphia next month. And yet, under the statutes of the United States, not an inch of film depicting this historic set-to can be legally transported in interstate commerce. This is how the extraordinary situation stands, and Mr. Dempsey, as he considers what the motion picture rights would be worth, is indeed vexed with Congress.

Straining Credulity.

Baltimore Sun: From time to time one hears of dogs that undergo great hardships and travel great distances to reunite their masters. These stories are welcomed by all lovers of dogs, but they are provocative, and now the expected has happened. An officer in the merchant marine tells of his pet cat, which deserted the ship in Australia and rejoined it in Boston. Here is a record that should be held forever to those who honor the domestic feline. And only the hard-hearted will remember that sailors like to yarn.

Poison Gas Will Be Used.

New York World: A formidable array of chemical experts at the Williams College Institute of Politics testifies in defense of gas as a comparatively humane weapon of war. This is now a familiar point of view. J. B. S. Haldane declared in his little book "Callithous" that gas is far less terrible than high explosive, shrapnel or the bayonet; it incapacitates most victims till the battle is over, and that is all. Courage in Politics

By GLENN FRANK.

GOING about Europe these weeks, one hears democracy's house of cards falling down about one's ears; everywhere one sees the breakdown of parliamentary government; less and less do the legislators seem able to agree calmly and to act decisively.

Is this because there is some fundamental flaw in parliamentary government—I mean some fundamental flaw in the machinery of government by representative legislators—or is it because, for one reason or another, courage has become one of the lost virtues of politics?

I have today been reading further in the essays of Coventry Patmore, from whom I quoted yesterday. Here are sentences that have peculiar point for the life of present-day Europe and present-day America:

"All men are born believers in aristocracy."

"Who is there who does not hold the fundamental dogma of politics, that the best should govern?"

"Modern democracy means nothing but the possession of the elective by ignorant aristocrats; by those who desire that the best should govern, but who have no sufficient means of discovering the best."

"When once they have discovered their imagined best, their loyalty to him is only too unbounded. They make him the master of their persons and purses, and let him deal with laws and constitutions as if none before him had ever been wise."

"Hence the first condition for the government of a democracy is the knowledge of the peculiar test or tests used by the unwise for the discovery of supreme political wisdom, or that which it pleases them to regard as such."

"Let it be at once admitted that their crucial test is the very best which persons in their condition could adopt—nay, which even the wisest could adopt, and which all wise persons do adopt, as the first rough test by which a man is to be judged as a man and selected as a leader: courage."

"Courage sometimes exists without practical wisdom; but there is a strong presumption that they go together."

"The possession of habitual courage implies that a man understands what he is doing and whither he is going. A fool dares not be courageous; or if he dares, it soon ends in his destruction."

"In politics, as in religion and morals, men dare not see the truth which they dare not obey."

Patmore sagely points out that loss of courage by leaders is soon followed by loss of insight, for, he says, "men lose the power of seeing the truth when they drop the custom of obeying it."

Most men, says Patmore, "talk a great deal about rights and equality; but in their hearts they do not care a straw for them in comparison with the pleasure of being handsomely and courageously governed."

This sort of philosophy can be used to justify a dictatorship. Our problem, it seems to me, is so to ground this philosophy of courage into our political life that democracy may be efficient and dictatorships be rendered unnecessary.

Fries, chief of our chemical warfare service, ridicules the belief that gassing produces tuberculosis; on the contrary, he asserts that the after-effects are negligible. What is more important, than this debate is the general agreement that whether gas is humane or inhumane it is going to be used. The scientific experts, the military leaders, the statesmen themselves, admit that in any desperate struggle the agreements barring gas warfare will be brushed aside.

Revising the Treaty.

Springfield Republican: France is said to be blocking the deal, but Belgium is ready to surrender. Malmédy and Eupen to Germany there is no reason why the French should very strenuously oppose the plan except in so far as it might threaten a revision of the treaty of Versailles. But no treaty lives forever, and this treaty is less fit than others to have a long life. Sooner or later its revision is sure to be forced by the mere fact that it no longer corresponds with facts, and a correction of the frontier between Germany and Belgium is one of the most useful of the minor changes that can be made.

NATURE'S CHURCH.

By BLANCHE C. HOWLETT.

(Dedicated to the Wild Flower Preservation Society.)

When weary and worn in body and mind, I go To church to recuperate. The floor of the church Is carpeted with ferns, the maiden-hair And woodasia make beautiful designs. The blossoms of the spotted winter-green And Prince's pine, pipsissewa, are bowed In prayer; the fragrance of wood incense fills The air; fall chrysanthemums gleaming white Give light. The orchestra, a brook whose bed Has stones and moss on lichen covered rocks; The strangled instruments are fiddle-heads And briar harps; a thrush the soloist. Into the contribution box a red squirrel drops a hickory nut, then kneels and folds His hands in prayer. God must be everywhere.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Delayed Annuities.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Will you kindly permit a reader and an admirer of The Post for 28 years to inquire regarding the delay in payment of the added annuities voted by Congress to annuitants under the retirement act. Two months have elapsed since the passage of the act. It has been stated that computation will not be completed before the coming months of November and December. Why? There are printed tabulations in circulation of the sums due pensioners each period from the minimum to the maximum length of service. This computation is not needed for each annuitant. A glance at the table will show the sum due each retired government employe. Why the delay? C. Washington, Aug. 26.

HE DESERVED PUNISHMENT.

This clipping from a Boston newspaper published in 1864: "A man about 46 years of age, giving the name of Joshua Coppenhaver, has been arrested in New York for attempting to extort funds from ignorant and superstitious people by exhibiting a device which he says will convey the human voice any distance over metallic wires so that it will be heard by the listener at the other end. He calls the instrument a 'telephone,' which is obviously intended to imitate the word 'telegraph' and win the confidence of those who know of the success of the latter instrument without understanding the principles on which it is based. 'Well-informed people know that it is impossible to transmit the human voice over wires as may be done with dots and dashes and signals of the Morse code, and that, were it possible to do so, the thing would be of no practical value. The authorities who apprehended this criminal are to be congratulated, and it is to be hoped that his punishment will be prompt and fitting, that it may serve as an example to other conscienceless schemers who enrich themselves at the expense of their fellow creatures.'"

APARTMENT HOUSE GROWTH.

No one knows to what new limits of size and cost apartment houses may be developed in the future, says the Ohio State Journal. Years ago the million-dollar apartment house made its appearance and may be found in many of the larger cities. The smaller cities have had an apartment house development quite in keeping with population. Now in the larger cities the $2,000,000 apartment house may be found and they are increasing in numbers. In the larger cities, and in New York particularly, the development of the very large and expensive apartment buildings has been notable. They provide space for imposing homes, often from 10 to 20 rooms being provided, some having an entire floor for a family, the space being ample and so utilized as to give each family a home with every convenience save the yard and garden. There are many who prefer such living quarters. Investors and builders are quick to unite in an effort to provide them with the facilities they desire and, in most instances, the larger apartments have been desirable investments.

Little girl suffers five years from unusual skin trouble
Resinol
relieves and heals

Grand Rapids, Mich., Jan. 9:—
"Sometime ago my little girl's whole body became dry and scaly. The skin where her shoes were laced and under her toes cracked open, which made it very painful. We were advised to keep her skin soft with a good cold cream or pure lard and for five years I have spent many hours and used numerous half-pound cans of cold cream, but to no avail. As she grew older the trouble gradually became worse until I remembered that when she was a baby I had cured a bad case of eczema by using Resinol Soap and Ointment.

So for three weeks she has had no other soap on her skin and I cannot begin to tell you how much improvement has been made. Her feet are almost normal and the rest of her body is better than it has been for years. Up to this time I had never been able to bathe her often than was absolutely necessary, but now a bath with your wonderful soap actually makes her skin moist and rosy, whereas before, soap and water made her look and feel parched and dry even after a liberal application of grease."

41 BODIES YIELDED BY MINE WORKINGS WRECKED BY BLAST

Three Men Still Are Missing at Clymer, Pa.; Hope for Them Abandoned.

10 ESCAPE UNINJURED;
4 ARE IN A HOSPITAL

Federal and State Inquiries Are Under Way; Inquest Awaits Findings.

Clymer, Pa., Aug. 27 (By A. P.). The wrecked workings of the Clymer mine of the Clearfield Bituminous Coal Corporation tonight had yielded the bodies of 41 of the 44 miners who were killed late yesterday by a terrific explosion. Far into the mine picked rescue teams toiled incessantly to penetrate the tons of slate and rocks which formed the tomb of the three missing men. Hope was abandoned that any of them would be found alive, and experienced mine workers estimated it would require several days to extricate their bodies. Nineteen bodies were brought to the surface today from the ill-fated slope and placed beside the turn forms of 22 of their comrades who had previously been found and taken to a makeshift morgue near the pit mouth. There Marion Putts, the village storekeeper, passing along the line of victims, recognized 25 of his friends and relatives identified the other victims.

Fifty-eight underground toilers were in the mine when the blast occurred. Ten escaped uninjured and four others are under treatment in a hospital.

Investigations Under Way.

Coroner E. Fred St. Clair planned to empanel a coroner's jury tomorrow to view the bodies of the victims preparatory to holding an inquest. The coroner said the inquest would be deferred for about two weeks, when Federal and State investigations, designed to determine the cause of the explosion, were expected to be completed.

Thus far, Federal and State investigators, as well as company officials, have declined to venture an opinion as to the cause of the explosion. The mine was not "rock dusted," but company officials said it had been partially dusted. A process under which a thin coating of cement or concrete was applied to the main headings under pressure by a cement gun.

Bureau of mines officials explained that the dusting process was designed to prevent disintegration of the roof of mines. The Clymer mine was also equipped with a modern ventilating system but was not a "sprinkled" mine.

Took In His Divorced Wife and Her Husband

Los Angeles, Calif., Aug. 27 (By A. P.). A domestic triangle in which Gibson Gowland, film actor, kept his divorced wife and her husband as guests in his home in order that his 10-year-old boy might be with his mother, was disclosed by Gowland in court here yesterday when he applied for court permission to place the boy under the care of some one other than his mother. He admitted the present plan a failure.

Gowland's attorney told the court that in addition to supporting his former wife, now Mrs. Beatrice Meakin, in his home, Gowland had obtained motion picture work for them both. Gowland achieved fame as McTeague in the motion picture, "Greedy," based on Frank Norris' novel, "McTeague."

Krishnamurti Begins Journey Westward

New York, Aug. 27 (By A. P.). Traveling in a private car attached to a New York Central train, Jiddu Krishnamurti, hailed by his followers as the "New World Teacher," left today for Chicago. There he will speak before a meeting of the Order of the Star of the East, of which he is the head.

Accompanying him are Mrs. Annie Besant, international president of the Theosophical society, and other followers. The young Hindu Theosophist is confident that his visit in this country will result in a religious awakening of Americans.

R. A. Day Indictment Dropped by Buckner

New York, Aug. 27 (By A. P.). An old indictment for possession of liquor against Ralph A. Day, former State prohibition director, was dismissed today upon recommendation of United States Attorney Buckner. The indictment was opened two months ago after remaining sealed with the clerk of the court since it was found in December, 1922. The indictment charged, specifically, the possession of twenty-five cases of whisky.

COMDR. RODGERS IS KILLED AS PLANE FALLS TO RIVER

cockpit of the plane was just above water. The shock of the fall broke the propeller. Water welled into the pit, but Commander Rodgers and his companion were sitting high enough to keep their heads above the surface of the river and save themselves from drowning. Officers, sailors and marines leaped into the water and floundered out to the rescue. Others tumbled into a 20-foot navy barge and pulled out the wreckage. The first effort to lift the commander out of the plane were unavailing, according to eyewitnesses.

The commander and his mechanical were conscious but their faces showed they were in great pain. Engine Against Chest. The engine of the plane was partly lodged against Rodgers' chest, stalwart sailors and marines tugged and pulled as best they could, but finally had to send hurriedly for wrenches and saws. Despite their best efforts it took fully 50 minutes of labor to move the engine and release the wreckage from the commander's leg.

Schultz in the meantime had been lifted from the wreckage and was taken to a hospital. A special stretcher used for airplane accidents was brought along the river and sailors lifted him in their arms and placed him on it. A naval ambulance was waiting when Commander Rodgers was brought ashore. He was conscious, thanks to stimulants given him by members of the medical corps, who rowed out to him.

Face Has Line of Death. Suffering intense agony, the commander wrung his hands, and his face took on the hue of death. But he pulled himself together and talked to the rescuers who came to him to ease his pain.

"Easy, boys. Go easy," he said. He spoke in a low voice. No one was admitted to the hospital except those who had business within. A guard was thrown around the plane and no one was allowed to intrude. Some time after the commander's admission it was given out that he suffered a broken leg and some minor injuries.

The announcement of his death came suddenly and sent a pall of gloom over the entire yards. Word quickly reached the Essequental grounds, which adjoin the navy yard, and all exhibition flights were immediately stopped.

Death Hastened by Shock.

Surgeons said unofficially they believed that shock hastened the commander's death. At first, they said, the shock acted something like a local anesthetic and permitted him to remain conscious and talk with those about him. Then, as the sudden dulling of senses passed away and the agony of his injuries made itself manifest, he crumpled.

Until the very last Commander Rodgers talked with those about him during his period of consciousness. According to naval officers, the commander had circled the field and had gone out on the river again before he attempted a landing. As he came up the river the second time his plane side-slipped when it was too near the water for the commander to recover his equilibrium.

Schultz, 29 years old and an aviator's machinist mate, first class, had just completed about a year in the navy and was contemplating leaving the service when certain developments caused him to remain a few weeks after his second enlistment expired. His home is in Williamsport, Pa.

Ritchie at Hospital. Gov. Ritchie of Maryland and Mayor Kendrick of Philadelphia, who were participants in the Maryland day ceremonies at the exposition grounds, were in the navy yard when they heard of the accident. They hurried to the hospital to offer their sympathy.

It was later learned that Commander Rodgers, in coming out of his mother and word was immediately sent to her home at Havre de Grace, Md. She started immediately but he died while she was on the way to his bedside.

An inquest was conducted by Lieut. Comdr. E. E. Eckert, of the Navy Medical corps and later the board of inquiry was convened.

On Way to Inspect Planes. Commander Rodgers, who was appointed assistant chief of the bureau of aeronautics, Navy Department, after his death, left for Philadelphia to inspect progress on new PN-10 planes being built at the naval aircraft factory for his long distance squadron.

He was relieved recently as assistant aeronautics chief on his own request and was preparing to make further studies of aerial navigation over the seas, involving a flight with two of these new planes from Philadelphia to San Diego, Calif., via the Panama canal, October 20.

Word of his death came as a profound shock to department officials. Admiral E. W. Eberle, acting Secretary of the Navy, sent the following dispatch to Rear Admiral John A. Rodgers, U. S. N., retired, father of the deceased aviator, at Havre de Grace, Md., stating: "The department wishes to express the navy's profound sorrow and sympathy over the sad loss of your son, Commander John Rodgers, who has rendered such valuable service and who died in the performance of duty."

Educated at Annapolis.

Commander Rodgers was born January 15, 1881, in this city and entered the United States Naval Academy in 1899, graduating in 1905. Becoming interested in aeronautics early in his career, he was through out his service prominently identified with naval aviation.

He was among the first group of naval officers to receive aviation training, and in March, 1911, was ordered to Dayton, Ohio, where he received instruction from the Wright brothers.

Following this period, he went to Annapolis, where the pioneer officers in naval aviation were assembled into the first naval aviation detachment. Commander Rodgers was the senior officer of this group.

While on this duty Commander Rodgers made the first cross-country flight made by a naval officer and one of the first cross-country flights ever made in this country. The plane, a Wright machine, was assembled at Washington, D. C., flown to Annapolis, then to Baltimore, to Havre de Grace, Md., and back to Annapolis. During the fall and winter of 1911, he assisted his cousin, C. P. Rodgers, in making the first cross-country flight made in this country.

Pioneer in Navy Aviation. In January, 1912, he established a naval air station at San Diego, Calif., and conducted original, valuable and interesting experiments with seaplane floats. For this reason, it may be said that he was a pioneer in placing aviation in the navy at sea with the fleet.

Following this, in his attempt to nonstop flight from San Francisco to Hawaii in 1925, his seaplane was forced to descend in the ocean off Hawaii because of a gasoline shortage and after being lost at sea for nine days, he was picked up by a submarine.

During the world war, he was placed in command of a division of the submarine forces with the Atlantic fleet and also had aviation assignments. In July, 1922, he commanded the naval air station at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, and in September, 1925, became assistant chief of the bureau of aeronautics.

Rodgers' Death Shocks Wilbur at San Francisco

San Francisco, Aug. 27 (By A. P.).—Secretary of the Navy Curtis D. Wilbur said that he was shocked beyond expression when told of the death today of Commander John Rodgers. The news was given to him while he was attending a luncheon at the Commonwealth club. He said:

"I am shocked beyond expression at the news of the death of Commander Rodgers. I feel it as a great personal loss and a loss to the United States navy. It is also a loss to the aeronautical world. 'Commander Rodgers was one of the world's greatest leaders in aviation. He was a man of ability, courage and resource, and I was happy to regard him as a personal friend. He comes of a long line of naval men, who have had brilliant records in the United States navy since the revolutionary war. No one was more brilliant, however, than John Rodgers.'"

Lieut. Bettis Gains, Despite Injuries, Aviator's Recovery Deemed Certain, Although Five Bones Were Broken in Crash.

The condition of Lieut. Cyrus K. Bettis, injured aviator, brought to Walter Reed hospital by plane Thursday from Bellefonte, Pa., scene of his accident, was announced by the War Department yesterday as good enough to hope for early recovery.

It was stated officially that Lieut. Bettis had suffered a fractured nose, fractures of both jaws, both bones of the left leg below the knee, and a broken body bruise. His eyes have not been seriously injured, and he has no internal injuries. An X-ray examination convinced surgeons that there was no need for an operation.

Despite army regulations providing that parachutes be worn, Capt. Ira C. Baker, Capt. A. W. Smith and Lieut. John E. Upson, who brought Lieut. Bettis back to Walter Reed Thursday in the ambulance plane, sat on their parachutes, refusing to leave their stricken comrade, in case of accident.

MRS. CAROLYN BELMONT WEDS VIRGINIAN IN WEST

Recent Divorcee Becomes the Bride of Arthur White, of Middlebury in California.

GUESTS DELAY WEDDING

Special to The Washington Post. Lake Tahoe, Calif., Aug. 27.—Mrs. Carolyn Hulbert Belmont, until recently of Reno, and formerly of New York and Virginia, became the bride here this afternoon of Arthur White, of Middlebury, Va. The wedding took place in the famous Tahoe tavern in the presence of a few friends of Mrs. Belmont, made during her recent stay in Reno. There were no New York guests, although several are from the East, and enjoy the distinction of being called "temporary" residents of Nevada.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. C. Carpenter, a Methodist minister of Reno, who is registered to perform marriages in California, having formerly preached in this State. The bride was unattended, and wore a beautiful afternoon gown of blue and carried autumn flowers picked this morning on the high Sierra adjacent to the tavern.

Mr. White was attended by Dr. C. W. West, of Reno. Set for high noon the ceremony was delayed by the bride because many of the guests were late in arriving here from Reno.

The highways leading to the lake are not so good as they were three months ago, and it was said there trouble had been experienced by several of the guests. They arrived before 2 o'clock and the wedding took place immediately.

Following the ceremony the party sat down to a delightful luncheon spread in a private dining room. Late in the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. White left here by motor for a tour of California and Canada.

Mr. White's young daughter, Elizabeth, left two days ago for her Virginia home, accompanied by her governess. The couple will make their home at Middlebury, where Mr. White maintains a large farm and devotes most of his time to raising horses and supervising his farming interests.

Mrs. White obtained a decree of divorce here last Monday from Raymond Belmont, son of the late August Belmont, a large and successful horseman and known throughout the nation as one of the country's leading financiers.

ORDERS SYMINGTON'S
DIVORCE SUIT HALTED

New York Court Enjoins Clubman From Action in Maryland.

New York, Aug. 27 (By A. P.).—Thomas H. Symington, wealthy manufacturer and clubman, was enjoined by a supreme court order from proceeding in the Maryland divorce suit of divorce against Ida May Symington, his wife. The order was granted on the ground that the Maryland action was instituted chiefly to harass, annoy and vex his wife.

Justice Ansh ruled that Symington's alleged intent to be a citizen of New York when he brought his first action for divorce here and has since admitted the jurisdiction of the New York courts by replying to his wife's amended answer, setting up a counter claim for a separation.

In the first trial the court directed a verdict for the wife, but the appellate division ordered a retrial. Symington then applied for permission to discontinue action, but this was denied. The second trial is on the fall calendar.

Common Pleas Judge Silbert, of Cleveland, this afternoon talked over long distance to James W. Huffman, executive secretary to Gov. Donahue and told him of the reprieve he was issued today. He was ignored by Warden P. E. Thomas. Huffman told the judge to wire his recommendation to the governor and a reprieve until September 10 would be granted by the chief executive.

The question of jurisdiction in the case. It was also explained the governor will give Trial Judge McMahon an opportunity to go into the legality of the trial which is questioned on the grounds that Ross was not first taken to the juvenile court.

ALEXANDRIA RAILS FIREMEN'S RETURN FROM CONVENTION
Red Fire, Bells and Officials Greet Delegates; Many in the Parade.

MRS. W. F. TRENNY ELECTED BY W. C. T. U.

Name Chosen for Bathing Pools—Bronze Tablet to Be Unveiled.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
124 N. PATRICK ST., ALEXANDRIA, VA.

The 100 members of the Alexandria fire department who won first honors at the State firemen's convention in Covington returned at 10:23 o'clock last night, to be met by Mayor Smoot, City Manager Morton and every member of the department who stayed at home from the convention. Every piece of fire apparatus in the city was lined up to greet the firemen, and after the men were greeted briefly by the mayor and city manager and complimented on the showing made at Covington, a parade was formed, in which apparently at least half the population of the city joined.

In a blaze of red fire, with the city bells ringing and automobiles adding to the clamor, the firemen, in full uniform and headed by the Citizens band, marched the length of King street before finally breaking up and proceeding to their various engine houses. The curb on King street was lined with flags, and there were six dazzling red lights on each square.

The "Alexandria Municipal Pools" was the name selected for a special committee of the city council, consisting of Councilmen Bryant, Tier and Pannon, yesterday, for the swimming pool which is to be opened this week. The name was selected from a list of 54 suggestions made by Alexandria citizens in response to a request from City Manager Paul Morton.

A bronze tablet, suitably inscribed, will be installed at the pool, setting forth the fact that the facilities were made possible by a retired business man, whose gift of $10,000 for this purpose initiated the project which has been practically completed, at a cost of more than $22,000.

The council committee also adopted rules and regulations for the government of the pools, which specify the hours the pool will be open, and the conditions under which both the main pool, for adults, and the wading pool, for children, may be used. The date of formal opening will, it is expected, be announced shortly. Water was turned into the pool last night, and the only work yet uncompleted is a small amount of grading.

Eight colored persons arrested Thursday in the home of Julia Washington, colored, 432 South Columbus street, were released in police court yesterday after the Washington woman had admitted ownership of a small quantity of whisky found in her home by Sgt. Sims and Policemen Bayless and Padgett, who raided the house. The Washington woman was fined $70.50 on a charge of violating the dry law.

The concert which was to have been given last night by the Boys Independent band, of Washington, and band having received an unexpected call to Niagara Falls, N. Y.

Funeral services for Mrs. Della Cline, who died Wednesday in Alexandria hospital, will be conducted at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the funeral home of Cunningham, Kennedy & Watkins, 809 Cameron street, by W. H. Webb, of the Christian Science church, Washington. Burial will be in Bethel cemetery.

Mrs. W. F. Trenny has been elected president of the Willard W. C. T. U. Mrs. W. E. Ludwig has been chosen first vice president; Mrs. N. V. Clayton, corresponding secretary; Mrs. William A. Campbell, recording secretary; Mrs. O. B. Pierpont, treasurer, and Mrs. Ruth S. Field, chorister.

Film Operators Wage Dispute Deadlocked

The motion picture operators and theater managers are still deadlocked over the wage demands of the operators. Representatives of both sides last night attended a meeting in the offices of A. Julian Brylawski in the Earle building, which lasted until midnight but bore no fruit.

The operators' contract expires Wednesday. The operator at present is being paid $65 for a 44-hour week and three men fill those hours. They demand $75 for a 40-hour week with a fourth man in the booth. Peace offerings were made earlier in the week by the managers but thus far have not been accepted. The operators threaten to strike if their demands are not met.

$156,000 in Telephone Equipment Approved

New facilities approved include underground conduit and manholes, underground cable and poles, wire and aerial cable in the Adams-Columbia, Cleveland, Main-Franklin and North-Potomac districts.

A search by police last night for the driver of the automobile which early yesterday struck and critically injured Daniel Moore, 28 years old, 210 E street northeast, while he was standing in street car loading safety zone at Connecticut avenue and L street northwest, proved futile.

Moore is in Emergency hospital suffering from a possible fracture of the skull and probable internal injuries. The Post Housekeeper

Home Efficiency Service

WE planned, some weeks ago, to have a party here at the studio for the purpose of demonstrating the process of making and the pleasure of consuming an angel food cake. The weather has been sufficiently unreasonable to make any form of cookery in the studio a matter of difficulty, and we have, therefore, said nothing further about the occasion of the angel food. As soon as the weather shall have become dependable we shall announce the date of our party, and to the list of names already in our book we can add two more. If any one wishes to be with us we will add their name at once to the list. We hope to be able to conduct this demonstration early in September.

We do not feel that we can answer you through the column, Mrs. P., but are mailing you a card for an appointment with the Housekeeper for Tuesday. We trust that this will be agreeable to you.

We have here a request from a very young lady who wishes to make a cake, if you please! And the occasion of the cake is a most auspicious one. Her mother is to have a birthday. I think you are a very fine little daughter, Margaret, and I am going to give you a recipe that is easy to follow, and that should prove quite successful. Be very careful, dear, to measure the ingredients accurately, and do not have the oven very hot when you put the cake in, for if you do it will not have a chance to rise before a crust is formed over the top. That your cakes have burned on the bottom may be the fault of the oven, but I think you can get around the difficulty by placing the cake nearer the top, just above the center, rather than as before on the lower shelf. Guard against the cake falling by not opening the oven to look at it more than is necessary, and certainly not at all for the first 10 to 15 minutes. When the cake is done it will draw away from the sides of the pan. Let it cool thoroughly before frosting. And good luck to you.

A Birthday Cake.
 1/2 cup butter.
 1 1/2 cups of sugar.
 Yolks of 4 eggs.
 1/2 cup water.
 1 1/2 cups flour.
 1/2 cup corn starch.
 Four teaspoonsful baking powder.
 Whites of 4 eggs.

at each place, light the candles before mother comes into the room, and it will be festive in appearance, this dining room of yours, I feel quite sure. And it is nice indeed that mother is to be away until the very day. Everything can be ready when she walks into the room. With little sister managing the dinner and decorations, you are a team indeed. Mother will be very proud of you. If we can help more, let us know.

Here are simple directions to cover the canning of tomatoes, Mrs. P.
 Wipe the tomatoes and cover with boiling water until the skins may be easily slipped off. Cut in pieces and cook until thoroughly scalded, skimming while they are cooking. Fill the fruit jars and allow them to remain on their sides for two or three days before standing them upright.

 Iced tea

Our menu for this week-end is again a light supper rather than a dinner menu. The shrimp may be made into a salad if one wishes, and in place of the vegetable salad a hot dish, either a creamed vegetable or a soufflé of some sort, used.

Shrimp Newburg.

1 pint fresh shrimp.
 4 tablespoonsful butter.
 Half teaspoonful salt.
 Cayenne.
 1 1/2 teaspoonsful lemon juice.
 1 teaspoonful flour.
 Half cup thin cream.
 2 egg yolks.

Clean the shrimps and cook them for three to five minutes in half of the butter and add the salt, cayenne, lemon juice and continue cooking for a moment longer. Remove the shrimps, put the rest of the butter into the dish and thicken with the flour, stirring constantly. Add the cream slowly and the egg yolks slightly beaten. Return the shrimps to the mixture and serve on toasted, diamond-shaped squares of bread. Garnish with parsley.

Cottage cheese served with a supper of this sort is made especially delicious with the addition of a few tablespoonsful of cream and salt and pepper to taste. It may be further glorified by the addition of a small quantity of melted butter and, if onion flavor is acceptable, a few drops of onion juice.

Cudahy's Puritan Ham

ripened
 naturally

Cudahy's Puritan Ham is distinguished for its finer flavor and delicious tenderness, and it owes these qualities to the special Cudahy method of curing.

This exacting method of preparing the young meats selected for Puritan, slowly and naturally diffuses the rich, meat juices without forcing or hurrying. The result is like tree-ripened fruit, compared to artificial ripening.

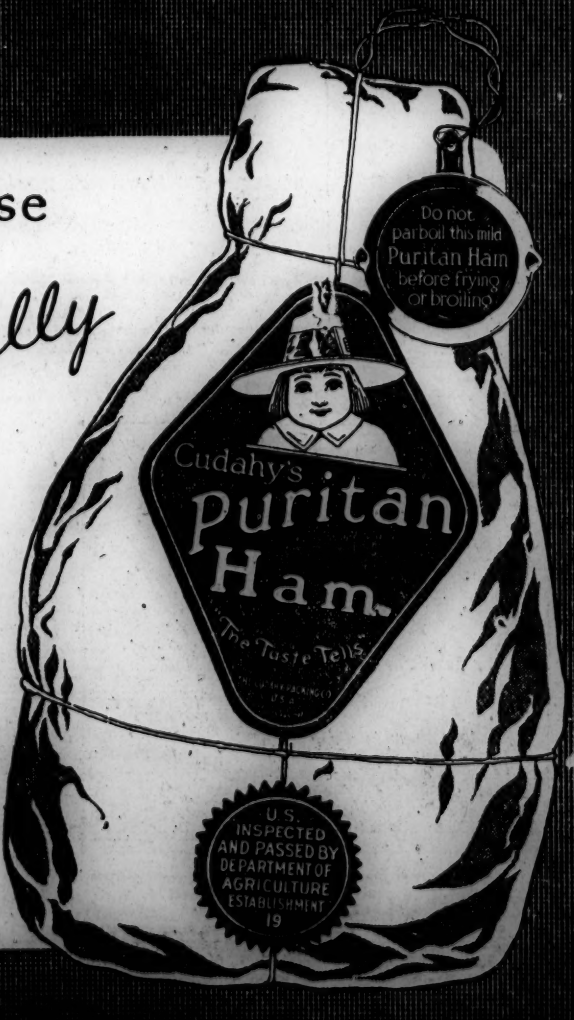

You will be delighted with Cudahy's Puritan Ham. It is so easy to prepare; you do not need to parboil. Puritan ham stands high in food value and necessary muscle and tissue building elements; and is so easily digested. At your dealer's.

WIVES OF TOMORROW

By FRANCES McDONALD

Strong Mothers—and Weak Sons.

DEAR MISS McDONALD: I wish you would print this long letter to help girls who are going with boys that are afflicted with that mother and son complex.

At the age of 17 I met a boy eight years my senior. We went together six long years. During our courtship I learned of the great love and friendship of his mother and I often wondered from things she had told me and remarks from outside if her love was any different from that of any mother for her child.

People would stop me on the street and tell me not to trust his mother, as she never wanted her son to marry and told me of her feeling toward one another and I always told them I was proud of my friend's mother and that it was a wonderful thing to see nowadays. His mother was very good to me for a long time; that is, until she saw her son giving me my diamond, which I got a few months ago. She gave me many beautiful gifts for my chest that her son gave me. When I thought he was really serious we began to have heart-to-heart talks together, and he out and told me that he would never marry until his mother died, as she had married a man she didn't love and all her love was for her son as he was all she had to live for, although her husband is living and they are comfortably fixed.

Just before I was to receive my ring his mother called my mother up and told her that she was happy to think that her son was giving me a ring and that she could feel sure that after "she had passed away" she knew her son would be well cared for. She also stated the fact that I have told my son that as long as he had me he would never have to marry. By this time I felt as many others would have felt that if a fellow 30 didn't have a mind of his own that he wasn't worth a thought from a girl at 22. By this time I had worked myself into a very nervous condition worrying about things and hoping that things would turn out for the best no matter how things went.

Recently I have given up this "promise of a man" and I am so happy—no one knows how happy I am to be free and know that I can live and not think I have to wait for a mother to die. Just what do you see that a mother can gain by bringing her son up to feel so duty-bound that he can't marry until she dies. I would hate to feel that any one was waiting for me to die.

HAPPY.
Well, you are to be congratulated upon your common sense—for it is generally acknowledged now that the man who used to be considered a "perfect" son because he hung to his mother's skirts through life is in reality a bit subnormal psychically. He has to hang to her skirts! I know a man "devoted" to a mother and two elderly sisters. In the past ten years those three aged women have made a woman of that man. He stands 6 feet and weighs 160, but he will meekly endure a round of abuse from a man half his weight. Why? Because he is no longer a man and men know it. His manhood has been sapped. And you have just broken with the same type. Congratulations, and may other girls in similar situations do likewise.

Conduct and Common Sense

By ANNE SINGLETON.

COURTSHIPS AND ENGAGEMENTS.

AMONG the questions which come in daily, there are pretty sure to be some about the behavior of a young man to a girl, or a girl to a young man; the behavior of their relations during the time of mutual attraction; and finally about how to announce an engagement (if the mutual attraction lasts to that point) in what they call "a unique way."

Often wish we lived in days when women were fewer, and therefore it was more of a feather in a man's cap to catch one. Now, he is very likely to think—and sometimes with a show of reason—that he is caught himself. Nearly all the bold, buccannery spirit that used to go into the average business boy, and he naturally fears to meet any demands upon what is left of it if he can't afford to leap aboard the lugger with the girl who would be his. However, she generally makes herself so charming that, whether he can or not, he does. Then, in the social world, comes the pow-wowing of elders, and then the engagement is mentioned to friends, written to distant connections, perhaps sent in a simple paragraph to the papers. Sometimes the families take advantage of some gathering of the clans to announce it. But it is not considered necessary to do so in unusual ways.

To the letters sent, I usually answer about like this. "When your son or daughter has decided to marry and you have accepted that decision (which is how parents decide today) it is business to write to the girl, or the boy, in the case, and to their parents, or go to see them, as a sign that you have accepted the engagement politely and wish to make friends with people to whom you are shortly to be related by the marriage of the young. If you are able to entertain them, you do, for the sake of showing your desire to know them better. If you can't do that, you show your friendliness by cordially when you meet. I can not give you unique ways of announcing engagements, because in the great world it is done simply."

BEAUTY AND YOU

BE FAIR TO YOUR BOB.

By Viola Paris.

WHEN bobbed hair came strongly into vogue a number of years ago, there was much head-shaking and expression of gloomy opinion as to the effect of this so-called "fad" on hair health.

Your hair will fall out. You will have dandruff. The gloomy ones predicted. "In a few years, bald heads will be seen on both sexes."

Well, we are no longer very much alarmed by this, because more and more women have adopted the short cut. And, on the whole, the hair seems to be the better for it. But it is not unusual to hear a woman say, "Bobbed hair isn't such a boon as I thought it would be. Mine doesn't look any unless I give it a lot of attention."

The answer is, hair was never otherwise, whether long or short. Of course, it needs attention—all the time. Why suppose that the mere act of cutting it will absolve us from this duty?

If you find that—since you have worn your hair short—it is lusterless, stringy, too dry or too oily, too thin, the fact is probably that you haven't been fair to your bob. Perhaps you are washing it too often. That is the usual temptation, because short hair can be so quickly shampooed and dried. But it isn't wise to be constantly washing the hair; it will be robbed of its vitality and become more and more oily. How much better it would be to have one careful, thorough shampoo regularly every two or three weeks, rather than a hasty dousing whenever the mood strikes you.

Usually, it doesn't harm to moisten the hair with warm water when dressing it, if you want to do so, but don't overdo this. A little tonic or brilliantine will help to keep the hair in place.

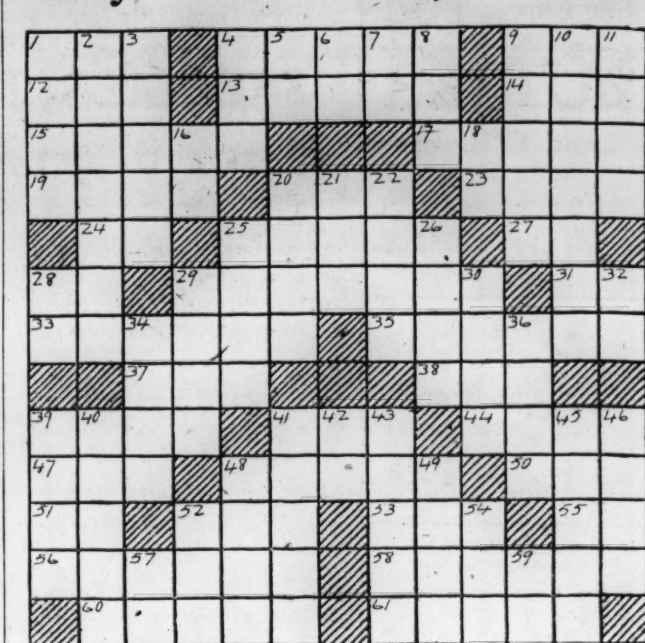

Give the scalp a massage frequently, to stimulate the circulation. Use the tips of the fingers and the palms of the hands for this. A tiny bit of olive or vaseline oil or oil may be rubbed into the scalp if it is dry.

Keep the hair clean by careful combing and brushing. (And don't forget to keep comb and brush clean too.)

Examine your beauty conscience and see if you have been at fault in any of these points. It is my guess that you will have very little cause to complain about your bob if you will only give it the small attentions that it rightfully demands.

RESULT OF YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. W. A. EVANS.

Questions pertinent to hygiene, sanitation, and prevention of disease, if matters of general interest, will be answered in this column. Where space will not permit or the subject is not suitable, letters will be personally answered, subject to proper limitations and where a stamped, addressed envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease. Requests for such service can not be answered.

TUBERCULAR VACCINATION.

PROF. ADAMI, now chancellor of the University of Liverpool, was a prominent member of the faculty of McGill university, Montreal, for a great many years. His word carries weight in England now, as it has in Canada and the United States for more than a quarter of a century.

In a recent address Prof. Adami chided the medical journals for having had so little to say about the Calmette method of vaccinating people, cows and other animals against tuberculosis. He mentioned particularly the Lancet and the British Medical Journal.

In this address he spoke as follows of this method:

"I come now to what I believe is the great advance of the day—an advance equally important for the prevention of both human and bovine tuberculosis. I refer to the great work of Calmette. Here, obviously, is a magnificent advance. We see before us a simple means of eradicating both human and bovine tuberculosis."

The Lancet was stirred by Adami's criticism to publish not only the address of the Liverpool chancellor, but also an editorial on the Calmette method. This editorial said:

"It is evident that Calmette has carried out an important and extensive sociological experiment, the net result of which will be awaited with much interest. At present the data are too vague and lacking in controls, and the period of the experiment is too short for anything like a final judgment."

It is interesting to know that experiments with the Calmette serum are being carried on in this country. Dr. Park announces that the experiments in the New York health department laboratory indicate that the Calmette method is the most promising procedure that has come to their notice.

Dr. W. P. Larson, of the University of Minnesota, is using a vaccine made in the same general way as that of Calmette.

The experiments of Calmette are not as embryonic as the editorial in the Lancet will lead many to think. Calmette began his experimentation along this particular line 21 years ago. Six years ago he had accumulated enough experience to fill a book of 500 pages. Having vaccinated several thousand calves, he began vaccinating human beings in 1921.

He and his pupils in France and elsewhere have now vaccinated a total of more than 10,000 cattle, nearly 10,000 children, and a fair number of monkeys, apes, guinea pigs, rabbits and other animals. Some of the calves were vaccinated more than five years ago. Some have been under observation for the natural life of a milk cow at the pail. Some of the children are getting well toward the end of their preschool life period. While the Calmette experiment is still experimental, it is now a clinical try-out, standing on a good deal of actual proof.

CUTS 7 TEETH AT 8 MONTHS.
Mrs. F. B. H. writes: My baby is 15 months old. When she was 8 months old she cut seven teeth, but since then she hasn't cut any. She is in very good health.

REPLY.
See that she gets enough milk and cereal, vegetables and fruit juice.

Keep her in the sunlight and air. She will come out all right.

RUTH AND PETER

By AHMED ABDULLAH

(Copyright, 1926, Thompson Feature Service, Inc.)

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

Ruth Wells, young, pretty and very ambitious, secured a position as secretary to Peter Barton, a distinguished New York lawyer, Harry Davis, a young man from Ruth's home town who is in love with her, is likewise in the employ of Barton. Ruth likes Harry, but she is determined to make a successful business career rather than marriage. She is sharing an apartment with two sisters, Edna and Mattie Matthews, who are also business girls. And Mattie and Ruth are taking a night-school course in law. Mattie Andrews formerly occupied the apartment with the girls, but is now living alone. Although Mattie is a successful business woman, she has the key to her new apartment. Ruth feels sorry for Mattie, and remains her friend in spite of these circumstances. Meanwhile Ruth proves herself an excellent secretary to Barton. Then one day Barton comments on the flowers on her desk presented by Harry, and Ruth asks Harry not to buy her any more. He is indignant and turns to Mattie for consolation. Mattie hopes he will grow to care for her, but Harry, disillusioned with the ambitious type of girl, falls in love with the more domestic Edna, and they are quietly married. Barton himself brings Ruth flowers one morning, and at length she is forced to admit to herself that she is in love with him. But he persuades her to remain. Shortly after this he confides his love for her, and they are married almost at once, in spite of the disapproval of his aunt and uncle. Ruth, who wished him to marry a certain little French countess, Barton then engages Mattie for her secretary, and Ruth is disgraced to find that now she has become his wife he no longer is willing to share his business interests with her. She becomes bored after a time, and tells him she is thinking of taking up her law studies again.

"AND why aren't you at the Mabie's dance? You know you were supposed to go there—and I was to call for you later on when I get through with these papers!"

"I telephoned the Mabie's," she said, weakly. "I knew you had to work at this case. And I—I don't care much about dance parties—without you."

She smiled; then, seeing a faint, answering smile on his face, went on:

"And so, while you were out of the room, I looked at the papers."

EVE IN PARIS

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

A DAY WITH FRIENDS.

A day with friends, away from care,
And all the burdens men must bear;
Away from every urgent need,
From selfishness and petty greed,
Where talk is all of books and plays
And by-gone joys of yesterdays.

A day with friends—and let it be
Beneath some spreading maple tree,
Where noise and clamor never break
The calm which sky and meadow make;
Where never traffic's dusty pace
Blots out the beauty of the place.

Where, each for all and all for each,
There is no cunning in the speech;
No thought of profit, save the gain
In liveliness of heart and brain
And those more lasting riches wrought
By friendly interchange of thought.

A day with friends—throughout the years
But seldom such a day appears
When fame and money, hope and doubt
And gain and loss are all shut out,
And every thought that's uttered springs
From dreams and sweet imaginings.

The New Boudoir Slipper

Takes Flattering Notice

of the Vogue for Ostrich

AS usual, Jelleff's introduce the latest whim of Paris—the new boudoir slipper that came direct to the SOROSIS shoe shop from Paris.

Of course, the lovely colorings in soft suede are important—but we pass over that to call attention to the most important feature of all—the smart ostrich fringe, dyed to match the suede that hugs the instep.

all his problems as simply, as instinctively, as their little baby son would soon be doing.

Ruth envied her—terribly! She should come away from the little Columbia Heights flat, from Edna in the kitchen, from Edna hanging proudly over the gummy, dimpled baby—back to the Park avenue apartment with its tapestries and Persian rugs and carved Florentine furniture, with its Venetian glass and Dutch silver and ancient Spanish brocades, with perfect cuisine and soft-footed servants—and feel that Edna was richer, richer in everything, than she.

No! No!—she would try to banish the thought.
It was not so!
She loved Peter. Peter loved her. He did love her. No doubt of it! Not a doubt in the world!
And still—why wasn't she happy? Why did she grow more dissatisfied as the weeks passed by, the months? "I" said to Nelda, on a day two years after her marriage, "am only a figurehead. I—I—she tried to laugh—"once I had such high and shining ideals."

"Ideals! What utterly silly things to have! What was your particular brand, darling?"
"I wanted to help Peter—in everything! To be his real, real partner through life!"
"Peter doesn't need help," replied Nelda, gently. "Can't you see that?"
Ruth did see. She saw—something else; saw that she was—bored!

Frankly, as was her habit, she spoke of it to Peter that same night while they were dressing for a party. They had lately come in from the country, and were in a whirl of social engagements.
"Peter," she said, "I don't want to be as idle this coming winter as I was the last."
"Idle?—and bored! I'm thinking of taking up my law studies again!"

CHAPTER XIII.
"Bored!"

PETER, arranging his dress tie carefully before the mirror, looked up.

"Did you say," he inquired, "you were thinking of taking up your law studies again, Ruth?"

"Yes," defiantly.
He laughed.
"Don't laugh!" she exclaimed. "You aren't serious, dear."

"I am."
"Oh—ridiculous!"

"It isn't. Can't you see that I must have something—something to occupy my mind—something to do?"

Her tone was insistent.
Peter shrugged his shoulders. His amused indulgence gave way to faint irritation.

"Just what is your complaint?" he demanded. "You seem to me to have everything in the world—"

"Except an occupation."
"You have your house—isn't that occupation?—your friends—leisure to travel, to read, to hear good music, to go to the theaters—to study. If you must study—oh—the sort of thing women go in for—languages—art—cultural stuff. You could find plenty to do. Any woman in your position could—even if she has no children!"

Ruth flushed. Her childlessness was a bitter thought to her. Somehow she felt that her husband, who was anxious for an heir, blamed her for it.

So she was hurt; retorted angrily:
"My home is run by servants. My friends are your friends."

"What's wrong with that?"
"All our so-called friends mean is dances and dinners—and dinners and dances and dinners—"

"Hard to please, aren't you?"
"I am. I am intelligent. I am modern!"

"Well, music, the theater—"

"Oh, culture! I don't take interest in that sort of pretty, muslin-frocked culture! But I am interested in the law! I am interested in business! As much as you! I was a business woman when I married you—"

"But you are no longer a business woman," he reminded her. "I attended to the business end. I dislike women, at least married women, who go in for professions, compete with men, neglect their social and domestic obligations; business women? Bah! They make me tired!"

"Then why did you marry me?"
"I married Ruth, the woman; not Ruth, the secretary! You are my wife!"

"I'm not your wife!"
"My dear Ruth! Not the way I look at it! I'm your mistress, yes, and the mistress of your house, and your hostess, and your friends' hostess, and a peg to hang pretty clothes on! But I do not share your life. Your real life!"

"Real life?"
"Yes. Your business life! You have shut me out from it completely. I share nothing with you, except your bed and board. And I am bored, so bored! I know nothing of you, nothing! Even Mattie knows more of you than I!"

He was silent. So was she.
She stepped into her dressing room; slipped into the sheath-like frock of metal cloth that lay across the daybed; returned, remarked, quite casually, with a little yawn:

"If you knew how bored I am!"
He left the room. On the threshold he turned; flung, over his shoulder:

"You're not bored! You're spoiled! All right! Buy yourself a new hat! A new jewel—whatever you want! But I wish to hear no more about these silly law studies!"

They went to the party together; outwardly friends; but their hearts bitter and sore.

Peter wondered if, perhaps, his mother was right.
Had he made a mistake in marrying out of his class?

Then, the very next moment, he dismissed the thought—as wrong, ignominious. Why—he loved her—loved her with all his heart—care for nobody else in the world.

Came the second thought, bred by the first, as he saw her dancing with other men, looking so adorably pretty:

"Perhaps I am too undemonstrative! I must tell her more often how much I love her!"
He smiled. Women were like that. They took nothing for granted. They liked to hear—things.

The music was brushing out with a hiccoughy jazz tune.
He walked up to his wife.
"Dance with me, dear?"
"Gladly!"

Then, gliding across the waxed floor:

"You look charming tonight!"
"He was very attentive to her the rest of the evening; so much so that little Tom de Puyter whispered to him:

"Bartlett, with your own wife! Damned bad form, old trout!"
Ruth heard him; laughed.
But she was not pacified.

Peter was a dear. Yes, yes! But why did he treat her as if she were a doll, with sawdust in her head instead of brains?

Oh—she was so bored!
She yawned over her breakfast; yawned over the latest very bad novel, just proclaimed very good by just indifferent critics.

Then there was a telephone call: from Maisie Andrews, the show girl. She had almost lost touch with her, since Peter did not like her.

"Have tea with me today, Ruth?" she asked over the wire.
"Gladly. Where and when, Maisie?"

"Shall we say the Plaza, at 5?"
"I'll be there!"
"So'll I, Ruth! With bells on! And my new cable coat! I'll knock your eyes out!"

Ruth smiled. How like Maisie, how like a show girl, to choose a conservative place like the Plaza! Ruth herself would have preferred a gay place.

So the Plaza it was. Nor would she have agreed to meet Maisie had she not been angry with Peter; and there was no doubt of it—men stared and whispered, women stared and envied, as Maisie came through the lobby, her cable coat about her shoulders with a sort of luxuriously careless abandon.

And her jewels!

MODISH MITZI

They've been invited to a musicale and here Mitzi and the Goofers arrive a little late (Mitzi's fault as usual). Well, she may be forgiven on account of this very stunning, shirred and puffed velvet evening coat. The collar is voluminous. "What is that they are playing?" she asks.

Mitzi just loves music. You know she does—because she says so every once in a while. She is quite conscious that the gown she wears with the bow in front is very smart. Also her slave chain bracelet, also her earrings and necklace, to match.

Mitzi Just Loves Music

Here is a close-up of the earrings and the necklace. They're made of gold and colored glass. They're made of Debussy or Rachmaninoff? She does get them so confused. The Goofers, who has been admiring Mitzi, is as completely lost. He thinks it's a little of both. Dad has been drawing things all over his program.

The Goofers procured Dad's program and this is what he found. Dad had turned it into a map. It shows Lake Michigan and Milwaukee marking a spot nearby. That's where they are going from here. They'll be there next week. "It is a lovely concert, but don't you think we'd better pack," suggests Mitzi.
Monday—Mitzi Arrives in Chicago.

FRENCH RAILROADS IN GOOD DEMAND

South American Obligations

Also Display Firmer

Undertone.

FEW INDUSTRIALS WEAK

New York, Aug. 27. (By A. P.)

Revival of activity and strength in the French issues, several of which touched new peak prices, and a steady underlying investment demand for the rails featured today's firm bond market. Trading in the general list was rather dull, due largely to the fact that the activity of traders was centered largely on the distribution of recent offerings.

The improvement in the French issues reflected the progress toward fiscal reform, the government's decision to issue $200,000,000 of francs in the note circulation of the Bank of France in the last three weeks has gone a long way toward reviving confidence in the securities of that country. French government 5s and 8s touched new high prices for the year at 92 1/2 and 103 1/2, respectively, while Est Railways 7s attained a new top at 86 1/2. Substantial gains also were recorded in Lyons 6s and Paris-Lyon-Mediterranean 7s.

South American issues also displayed a firmer undertone in response to the prompt sales of the recent $10,000,000 Chilean government note issue, Argentine 8s of 1925, Bank of Chile 6 1/2s and Bolivian 8s of 1947 all sold at the year's best prices. Mexican issues held firm. Considerable activity also took place in German bonds, but price changes were narrow.

With the first 40 class one railroads to report for July showing combined net operating income nearly 30 per cent above the same months last year, the rail industry continued to attract interest. Alabama Great Southern 5s, Deland Hudson Convertible 5s and International-Great Northern adjusted 6s bid up to new high levels, while several others duplicated the year's top prices.

In the industrial group, American Writing Paper issues made further response to the announcement that the reorganization plan had been made effective. Weaknesses cropped out, however, in a few issues, Shell Oil 6 1/2s breaking 4 1/2 points on a few sales, and Robbins and Myers 7s dropping 2 points to a new 1926 low at 55.

United States government issues were irregular.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Aug. 27. (By A. P.)—All grain values displayed a sinking tendency today, weather in the north and ideal growing conditions everywhere for the crop being the chief responsible. Wheat closed unsettled, 1 1/2 to 1 3/4 cent lower, corn three-eighths to one-half cent higher, soybeans one-half cent higher, and provisions unchanged to 30 higher.

The grain market's support for the wheat market most of the time came from buying to collect a profit on the export trade. Demand for wheat from mills, exporters and foreign buyers helped to bring about a steady rise in the price of wheat. Aggressive selling earlier was partly induced by the fact that Chicago, Kansas City and St. Louis were heading for Great Britain.

With Canadian wheat offered cheaper than United States wheat and with larger yields of wheat in Canada than had been known for some time, Canadian wheat for October-November shipment was heavily sold. Some selling of wheat to go into store here was noted.

Further movement of corn here as out of condition contributed to the weakness of corn and oats. All deliveries of oats touched new low price record for the season.

Provisions were responsive to a sharp upturn in live values.

ANNOUCEMENT was made of the sending of Pitcher Walter Rucker to the New York Yankees via the waiver route by president Griffith yesterday. This means up the Washington pitching staff and the six flingers remaining, including Jimmy Uhlrichs, who is not rated as a regular, will have to do the pitching for the Harris team for the balance of the season. Fans no doubt will be surprised at the fact that Pilot Harris was willing to dispose of the leadingoundsman on his staff, but the act of the matter is that, not only Bucky convinced that the Harris is the first-class box pitcher, but he also is not satisfied with the pitcher's habits, believing that he has not been taking the game seriously enough or giving his best to his team.

That managers of the other teams are taking a hard circuit on the same way about it is indicated by the fact that every other outfit but the Yankees—and several of them could use good pitchers—turned thumbs down on him

He was put on the market for $10,000, but the Huggins were able to land him for a paltry $4,000.

DUTCH's record with the Nats for the current season is twelve victories and six defeats, but Harris states that he has been able to finish but comparatively few games, that many of his victories have been saved by his pitchers. He says that his pitching record is not a true barometer of his effectiveness, and that he is satisfied that the Nats can get along just as well without him.

This leaves Johnson, Coveleskie, Marberry, Murray, Crowder and Morrell to carry the pitching burden for the balance of the season. The probability is that much of the work in the box during the team's tick drills.

President, Griffith is now keeping he wires hot trying to get some help. He already has asked Little Rock to turn loose Joe Carroll, Bridgeport to send Clayton VanAlstyne along and Chattanooga to let him have Decatur Jones.

Yesterday he wired George Stallings, Rochester manager, requesting that Lefty Clarence Thomas be allowed to join the Nats. All four of these are wanted by the time the Western invasion starts in Cleveland on September 11.

Whether or not any or all of these

GEORGETOWN PLAYGROUND TEAM WINS POST'S CUP

Plaza Loses Title After Relay

Everett and Dingler Tie Record in 85-lb. High Jump.

Last Race Decides Issue; Mrs. Rhodes Gives Prizes.

GEORGETOWN playground crashed through with a thrilling 43-point victory in the annual playground field and track meet finals yesterday and earned possession of The Washington Post cup for a period of one year.

Plaza, which had run a neck-and-neck race with the West Enders from the start of the meet, finished a close second, with 40½ points, and it was not until the final event, the 880-yard relay, that Georgetown was assured of victory.

Other point scorers were: Cooke, 25; Columbia Road, 18½; Henry, 15; Garfield, 14; Johnson, 8; Happy Hollow, 7; Burroughs, 4; Hayes, 3; Rosedale, 3; Bloomingdale, 1; Twin Oaks, 1; Fillmore, 1.

FIVE marks were shattered and one equaled during the meet, including a new one established by the Garfield 880-yard unlimited relay team, composed of McCullough, Shorb, Lilly and Duval.

A new high jump record was made by Everett and Dingler, of Plaza, who tied in that event in the 85-pound class at 5 feet 1 inch, a new unlimited broad jump mark was made by McNe, of Georgetown, of 19 feet 2 inches. A 440-yard 85-pound relay record of 2:55 seconds, was set by Henry's team, composed of Suraci, Burwell, Lewis, and Pollinger, and another record broken was 440-yard mark in the 115-pound class relay, made by Plaza, this team being composed of Sheehan, Bottazzi, Luby and Hollis. The latter team's time was 51 seconds. Ford, of Columbia road, equaled the 100-yard dash record of 11 seconds.

A renewal of the duel between McCullough, of Garfield, and White, of Georgetown, who thrilled in the half-mile race the first day of the meet, was staged in the 880-yard relay. The result clinched the meet for Georgetown, who won by a wide margin, while the anchor men on their respective teams and when the latter received the baton from his third man he had about 10 yards to spare.

He held the lead around the curves and hit into the home stretch apparently with the race sewed up, but McCullough's grit served him as it did on the occasion of their previous battle.

THIRTY yards from the finish McCullough drew abreast of White and the two measured stride for stride to within a few inches of the tape, where McCullough threw himself forward, winning by inches.

Although defeated for the second time in as many starts by McCullough, White's second place in the event gave Georgetown the meet, as Plaza added a point to its total by taking third place in the event.

Mrs. Susie Root Rhodes, supervisor of playgrounds, presented Ben Kail, coach of the Georgetown team and Miss Abby Green, director of Georgetown playground, with The Washington Post cup after the meet.

Then boys who were first, second and third in each event were presented with The Post medals by Mrs. Rhodes. Georgetown retains the cup for one year, at the end of which time it will be competed for again.

ACE HUDKINS OUTPOINTS M'GRAW

Verdict Is Unpopular; Police Called to Ringside.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27 (By A. P.).—Ace Hudkins, Nebraska "wildcat," smashed his way to victory over Phil McGraw, Detroit lightweight, tonight in a bruising 15-round battle at Coney Island stadium.

Hudkins carried off the decision with a sensational attack in the last half of the fight after he had been outpointed in the early half.

Growing stronger as the battle progressed, in spite of the terrific pace both maintained, Hudkins wore his rival down with a smashing body attack, alternating with right hooks to the jaw that staggered the Detroit Greek in at least three rounds, the eleventh, twelfth and fifteenth. McGraw's left eye was almost closed.

Although most ringside critics conceded Hudkins a decisive margin on points, the crowd did not receive the verdict with entire approval. Hundreds stormed the ring, hurling hats and papers and jeering the Nebraska whose rough tactics had met with disfavor on several occasions.

It was one of the wildest demonstrations any New York arena has witnessed in some time and required a flying wedge of police to clear the ringside section and protect newspaper men from the onslaught. Hudkins had a slight advantage in weight—Hudkins, 136; McGraw, 134.

Essaying a comeback, Johnny Wilson, former middleweight champion, was battered to a decisive defeat by Maxie Rosenbloom, of New York, in a twelve-round semifinal. Rosenbloom weighed 164½ and Wilson 160.

Teams Battle Today For "Matty" Fund

Fans of this section will be given their opportunity to contribute to the Christy Mathewson memorial fund today when the National Circles meet the Mount Rainier team, on the latter's field on the Baltimore pike, starting at 3 o'clock.

The game should provide some of the best baseball of the season. The National Circles sprang into the sandlot limelight recently by defeating the Eastport nine, while Mount Rainier has ranked with the best teams hereabouts all season. Batson, who shut out Eastport, will twirl for the Circles, while Corkins will probably get the assignment for the Suburbanites.

BLACK, WHITE BEATEN BY PULLMAN

Cabmen Lose, 2-0, in Deciding Game in R. R. 'Y' Set.

By BILL WALTER.

BEFORE quite a gathering at the Union Station field yesterday, the Pullman nine took the final of a five-game series from the Black and White team by a 2-to-0 count, thereby annexing the championship of the Terminal Railroad Y. M. C. A. league.

"Lefty" Tripp and "Mickey" McConnell did the shooting for the respective teams. The former allowed five bingles, while the latter yielded six.

In the opening frame the Terminal toilers started off by filling the bases, but twice runners were nipped at the plate by Williams. "Mickey" ended this frame by fanning Tripp. The latter's double in the third accounted for the Pullmans' two markers.

Harry Hall, despite a painful ankle, turned in some neat work around second. He made a beautiful jumping catch of Smith's liner in the opening stanza. Nick Pannella and Mike Farrington also turned in some neat plays.

KINGMAN LAKE WORK TO BEGIN NEXT WEEK

Building of Conduit Is Expected to Keep Water Level Constant.

Building of a conduit at the lower end of Kingman lake and in the vicinity of Gallinger hospital, that will keep the level of the lake constant, will begin next week, it was announced at the U. S. engineer's office yesterday.

The dredge, Atlas, will begin to drive steel sheet piling on the Anacostia and Kingman lake sides for a cofferdam and after foundation is laid, two 48-inch pipes will be placed. The conduit will reduce the variance in the water's height from three feet now resulting tides, to a few inches, and will bring the sea wall to a point of not more than a foot above water level, making it an easy landing place for boating parties. Another conduit will be constructed at the upper end of the lake above Benning bridge.

The first conduit will be equipped with automatic tide gates permitting a flow of water into the lake at high tide and the reverse at low, thereby maintaining a constant lake level and preventing stagnation.

ROAD AND BRIDGE BUILT AS MILITARY PROBLEM

Guardmen to Reach Washington at 1 O'Clock and March to Armory.

Orders for their return to Washington were issued yesterday to the 121st Engineer regiment, District national guard, by Col. John W. Oehmann, commanding officer. Inspection of clothing and equipment will be held this morning. The men will entrain tomorrow morning at Accotink, Va., and will arrive in Washington at 1 o'clock in the afternoon. They will march from Union Station to the National Guard armory at First and B streets northwest, where they will be paid off and demobilized.

Following the inspection this morning trophies won in the athletic events at Virginia Beach last year will be presented to the winning companies. The trophies have been suitably engraved and will be kept in the company rooms of the winning companies. No athletic events were held this year because of the constant rain during the first part of the camp. A competitive drill between the companies will be held in the afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. Medals will be presented to the winners of the various drills.

Work On Road-Building.

Yesterday morning was spent in the working out in actual practice of a road building and attack preparation problem. The men cut through heavy underbrush and forest and laid a road for 1,800 feet to Accotink creek. Part of the road traversed marshy land and corduroy roads had to be built here. The road is capable of bearing a brigade of infantry and its combat train.

A pontoon bridge was then built across Accotink creek to enable the Red army, of which the guards are a part, to cross and attack the Blue army which is theoretically entrenched on the opposite shore. The road building was under the command of Maj. Joe R. McKay, while the pontoon bridge erection was directed by Maj. Julian S. Oliff. The entire construction work was commanded by Lieut. Col. Harry E. Gladman, executive officer of the regiment. The site of the road had previously been surveyed by the engineering squad under Lieut. William J. Mushake.

Col. Oehmann and Capt. Clay Anderson, regular army instructor, inspected the completed road and expressed themselves well pleased with the work of the men. To prove that the road was really a practical one, Capt. Ralph S. Childs, of Company B, drove an automobile to the creek and across the bridge. Tired, but proud of their efforts the men returned to the barracks for lunch and then spent the afternoon in close order drill in preparation for the competitive drill this afternoon.

Colonel Proves Popular.

Two members of the band were badly frightened while the engineers were away. Musicians Edwin Pencil and W. T. David, found walking on the parade ground, were "arrested" by two armed soldiers and marched to their barracks. They were given a preliminary hearing before Capt. Godwin Dunn, who ordered them placed in the guardhouse. With visions of dishonorable discharge and firing squads dangling before their eyes the two sat for two hours in a miserable mood. Finally they were released and told that "it was all a joke" perpetrated in revenge for their own activities in the practical joking line.

Col. Oehmann, the commanding officer, has worked himself into the esteem of the men, who call him the "Old Man," a term never given in the army except to a well-liked leader. The troops have other names for those they dislike. The term is never used in addressing the colonel, of course, but he is referred to all over camp as the "Old Man."
